Revolution and Evolution

THE GIANT THAT LIVES IN A BOX

Every few days some "silver tongued" orator drops in to offer us a storage battery merchandising proposition, that is, so he states, "Going to Revolution the Business."

Our observations, dating back over a period of years, has been that those who were revolutionizing storage batteries met death in the revolution—at least the only mark left by which to identify them is a tombstone.

As we expect to remain right here and prosper we much prefer Evolution to Revolution—we are thankful for the privilege of merchandising a storage battery that has behind it thirty years of Honorable Evolution.

"Exide" Batteries are built and sold to motor car owners on their honor. We're glad to place behind them our own honor as a local institution, dealing with local folks whose success or failure directly reflects upon our business.
