

Activities of North Shore Clubs

by Ruth Risley

ACTIVITIES at the Indian Hill Country club, which will celebrate its seventh birthday this summer, with a very gay year to its credit, have begun in a more or less informal fashion. The club was closed for some weeks during the winter and the Saturday evenings are now resumed, with tentative plans for invitation golf and tennis tournaments. The formal opening dinner dance will be held on Saturday evening of this week.

North Shore devotees of the "keep your eye on the ball" game have been applying the sand paper to the mashie and the niblack and the little old putter, and are already out and off down the fair green on that little journey that takes your mind off your business and makes you forget all your little troubles.

Sweaters in rose and purple and green and blue are all out of the moth balls and ready to see service a second summer.

The North Shore Golf club, just on the boundary of Wilmette and Kenilworth, is planning its grand opening for May 31. Skokie Country club has already opened its doors, and on Sundays, that is the nice ones that we have had, the links are really crowded, considering that the season is really so young.

Subscriptions totalling $175,000 were announced at the opening luncheon of the campaign of the Young Women's Christian association of Chicago, which was held last Monday at the hotel La Salle for workers who are helping to raise the $1,000,000 called for in the 1920 budget of the association. The total every day since has been growing, and it is expected that by next Tuesday the entire sum will be pledged. There are 700 workers active in the campaign, most of whom meet at the daily luncheons given for the purpose of hearing reports of work accomplished and methods used with the greatest success. Among the noon-day speakers have been the Rev. Charles W. Gilkey of the Hyde Park Baptist church, the Rev. John Timothy Stone of the Fourth Presbyterian church, the Rev. James K. G. McClure of McCormick Theological seminary and others. One of the features of the luncheon is the miniature newspaper that is issued daily with news of the campaign and the workers. The Y. W. C. A. is non-sectarian in its profession, being open for all girls who wish to enjoy its privileges, no matter of what race or creed. The money raised in the campaign will be spent largely for providing more housing facilities for the women and girls of the city, and for equipping summer camps for business and teen-age girls. Women and girls in all parts of Chicago and suburbs profit directly or indirectly by the extension program of the Young Women's Christian association.

hotel, comes the invitation to all delegates, writers, authors, editors and newspaper women of the north shore to make their headquarters

We are better prepared to serve you now than ever; so give us a trial and be convinced. We buy and serve the best quality goods. Our prices will be reduced as fast as food costs will permit. Soon we will have our own bakery installed to make everything we use in that line. A share of your patronage will be appreciated.

with them during the convention of the Illinois Federation of Woman's clubs, to be held during the latter part of this month. An informal reception is being planned for each afternoon between the hours of 4 and 5 o'clock, with short talks by penwomen. On Thursday noon, May 27, the association will hold a luncheon at the Chicago Woman's club, and at this time some of the best known writers of the country will be guests of honor. Reservations must be made to Mrs. S. Harry Hammer, 3903 Lake Park avenue, Chicago, before May 24.

It was reported this week that the members of Le Cercle Francais have completed their drive for $6,000 for the endowment of Le Cercle Francais bed at the American hospital, located at Rheims, France. Mrs. Morris M. Townley of Glencoe, was the president this past year.

Wedding Stationery

For the June Bride

There is a certain distinction and refinement connected with the quality of the engraving produced at the McClurg Shops. This difference is the reason that Spring and Summer Brides entrust their wedding stationery problems to our experts.

Specimens now on display in our Stationery Department offer a host of suggestions for invitations, announcements, and at home cards that nowhere, regardless of cost or production facilities, can be equaled.

Prospective June Brides should submit their engraving problems to us as early as possible, as quality work cannot be produced on short notice.
