

THE GOLDEN WEDDING

Come with me to a golden wedding, Long will the memory bless our years.
Lights on the lawn through the lanterns gleaming.
House all aglow for you, my dears.
Music and flowers and laughter and gladness.
Old friends and new friends they've known through the years,
They come from Chicago and all of her suburbs,
Bringing their gifts for you, my dears.
Here comes the bride with her smile
of welcome.
Hoy her eyes sparkle as she calls
each name.
White dress, white hair,—pin a pink rose on,
How it becomes her—rose of fame.
Here comes the groom, stalwart and handsome,
Shaking your hand, he is quite debonair.
Proudly erect he walks before all
men,
Able to love and protect you, my dear.
Young folks and old folks, small children too,
Wonderful sight for all to see.
Wedded folks exchanging greetings,
"Ten years", "Twelve years", "Twenty years" maybe.
Here is an old friend she knew in
her girlhood,
Back in New York state long years ago.
Here are the nieces and nephews
about them,
Cousins and sisters and loved ones
they know.
Into the house now for the wedding
supper.
Salad and sandwiches, coffee and tea,
Olives and ices, cake and the bride's cake,
Cut by the bride herself, for me.
"June 30, 1870—1920".
Reads the white frosting on the golden cake.
Telling of years of loving and doing,
Each for the others dear sweet sake.
Now to the lawn the crowd's adjourning.
Out 'neath the great trees, moon
o'erhead.
Here comes the bride on the arm of the bridegroom.
And once again they two are wed.
Dr. Leech, with his powerful speaking,
Tells of this service Judge Northrop has given
Englewood, Normal Park, North Shore churches.
Dr. Smith prays, leading thoughts to heaven.
Children shower them now with confetti.
Golden flowers in the arms of the bride.
Hang well the picture in the halls
on mem'ry,
See how he gazes on his bride with pride.
Then to the crowd of young folks
assembled,
Thus speaks the husband—"As a rule
for Life
This be your guide, as it has been my motto,
Never get mad at your wife".
—By Stella Bowers.

Clark T. Northrop).

Of interest to the Winnetka friends of Philip S. Post, prominent citizen who passed away at his home on Sunday, June 28, is the accompanying account of the funeral and burial services for the distinguished man, held at Galesburg, Ill., Mr. Post's former home.
The following is an extract from the Daily Republican Register of Galesburg.
Funeral services for Judge Phillip Sidney Post, vice president of the International Harvester company and former County Judge of Knox county, took place this afternoon (Tuesday, June 30) at 2:30 o'clock at the Presbyterian church. The body arrived at 1:38 p. m. from Chicago and a special car conveyed a number of his business associates and friends from Chicago to attend the services. Dr. Stuart M. Campbell, pastor of the Presbyterian church was in charge of the services.
The platform at the church was covered with beautiful floral tributes from the family, Galesburg and Chicago friends and business associates, and the casket bore many of these tokens of esteem.
The service of song was by Mrs. Everett Hinchcliff who sang very beautifully "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Oh Love That Will Not Let Me Go". Arthur Miller played her accompaniments on the pipe organ.
The pall bearers were: George W. Gale, Prof. H. E. Griffith, Dr. W. L. Raub, George A. Lawrence, Frank L. Adams, Charles Boyden of Sheffield, E. R. Drake and S. V. Stuckey. The burial was made in the family lot in Hope cemetery beside his father, General Phillip Sidney Post.

The following friends from Chicago attended the services:
Mr. and Mrs. Alex A. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Bancroft, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Sidley, Mr. Victor Elting, Mrs. Ira Couch Wood, Mr. William E. Elliot, Mrs. August Magnus, Mrs. John Hardin.

C. M. McDONALD IS NAMED DEALER FOR DODGE BROS. AUTOS

C. M. McDonald, automobile distributor with headquarters in the North Shore hotel, Evanston, announced this week that he had been appointed north shore dealer for Dodge Brothers' motor cars. This is considered one of the most important automobile dealerships in the local territory.
An important factor entering into his appointment lay in the fact that he is equipped to give adequate service on Dodge cars. His service station at Davis street and Elmwood avenue, Evanston, will be used for this purpose. His announcement includes the explanation that he will give service at this station not only to those who buy Dodge cars from him, but also to all present owners of Dodge cars.
In a survey of the automobile situation on the north shore made early this year by the Evanston News-index working in conjunction with the police department, it was ascertained that there are more Dodge cars here than of any other one make with the exception of Fords, which are the most numerous.
Mr. McDonald has been in the automobile business in Evanston a little more than a year. Besides the Dodge he handles the National, Lexington and Dort.
