

Social Happenings in Winnetka & Hubbard Woods. by Ruth Risley

THE wedding of Miss Mary Delafield Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter of Chicago and Lake Geneva, to William Cowper Boyden, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cowper Boyden, took place Saturday afternoon at Lake Geneva. It was notable not only because the bride and bridegroom are members of prominent Chicago families and are among the most popular young people in society, but also because it was one of the most picturesque wedding Chicago society has witnessed.

The service was read at 4 o'clock by the Right Rev. Hammond Page, missionary bishop of Spokane, Wash., formerly rector of St. Paul's church, Chicago, in the garden of the Carpenter summer residence on the lake, and was followed by a reception on the terrace, after which supper was served on the lawn. The bride, who is a petite and vivacious brunette, never looked lovelier than she did in her wedding gown of oyster white Salome velvet, which was made very simply with a short train. She wore a lace veil and carried several lillies.

Miss Cordelia Carpenter, cousin of the bride, who was maid of honor, wore a frock of purple chiffon with a hat of old gold velvet and carried goldenrod. The bridesmaids, Miss Elizabeth Carpenter, the Misses Frances and Ethel Dummer, cousins of the bride; the Misses Margaret and Elizabeth Boyden, and Mrs. Preston Boyden, sisters and sister-in-law of the bridegroom; Miss Marion Farnsworth, Miss Betty Quick, Miss Virginia Fitzhugh, Miss Beatrix Thorne, all of Chicago; Miss Marian Du Bois of New York, and Miss Marie Goodrich of Milwaukee, wore Chinese green chiffon gowns with hats of deep purple velvet. They carried bouquets of wild asters, thistles, and autumn wild grasses.

Acting as best man for his brother was Preston Boyden and ushering were George Sturges Carpenter, brother of the bride; Hunt Wentworth, Lawrence Callahan, John V. Farwell III, William H. Mitchell II, Revilo Fuller, Arthur A. Dixon, Leonard L. Marshall, Frederick W. Copeland, and Sidney G. Greeley, all of Chicago; Leon Chichester of Grand Rapids, and Francis P. Magoun, Jr., of Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyden have gone to Huron Mountain, Mich., for a several weeks' stay, after which they will live at 1151 Oakley avenue, Hubbard Woods.
