

SCHOOL PROBLEMS

By Supt. Washburne

Q.—Is it true that there are vacant rooms at Greeley while children are being crowded into the Horace Mann school?

A.—No, there are classes in every room in the Greeley school, including the assembly hall. The growth of the southeast part of Winnetka necessitated the establishing of a new primary room in the Greeley building this year. This has forced the seventh grade out. One of the rooms at Greeley became so crowded this year that children had to be transferred up to Horace Mann. At the Horace Mann the congestion is for the most part in the number of classes which have to be accommodated within a single building rather than in the number of children to each class. Very few of the actual class rooms at Horace Mann are overcrowded. There is one room at the Skokie school built for a manual training room which could be used for a class room, but there is no practical means of transplanting a whole class from the Horace Mann school to Skokie, nor would the transplanting of one class obviate any of the makeshifts to which we have had to resort in the Horace Mann building.

Q.—Wouldn't almost anything be better than having classes sit all day in the basement at Horace Mann?

A.—Fortunately this condition does not exist. The manual training and domestic science room, it is true, are used as session rooms, but this does not involve any class sitting in these rooms for more than one period at a time. Under the departmental system classes rotate, and each group spends much more time in class rooms upstairs than in the manual training and domestic science rooms. Both of these rooms, although in the basement, do get direct sunlight, and while objectionable from many standpoints are in no way a menace to the health of the children.

Q.—Is there any foundation for the report that a number of seventh and eighth grade children are paying tuition to attend the Kenilworth school rather than stay in the Winnetka schools?

A.—No Winnetka children are paying tuition to attend the Kenilworth school. One child whose home is in Winnetka is living with an uncle in Kenilworth this year on account of illness in her family. Another child whose family is about to move to Kenilworth is being allowed to attend the Kenilworth school so as to avoid a transfer in the middle of the term. It may be that these two cases have given rise to the report mentioned.

THIS LITTLE BOY GOT IN BAD CONSIDERABLY*Wilmette Youth Meets Up Against the Stern and Determined Winnetka Coppers

Paul Moore, 16 years of age, of 531 Washington avenue, Wilmette, will think at least twice before he again takes his father's machine out for a race along Sheridan road in Winnetka.

Early this week Moore was apprehended by policemen Hanselman and Balkow breezing along the boulevard in the vicinity of Willow street at the modest pace of 60 miles an hour. He was given the customary yellow slip.

On Wednesday afternoon, the time set for the hearing before Justice Byron Nelson, motorcycle policeman George Schaefer, of Wilmette, appeared in court in the stead of the defendant. He handed the slip to Justice Nelson, explaining the while that young Moore had informed him that he was not the guilty person but, that some other person had very evidently employed his name.

Now Hanselman scented bad business and forthwith repaired himself to the New Trier High school where young Moore is wont to spend much laborious time. Moore was brought before the high school authorities and eventually confessed guilt. Being a minor he was placed under the watchful eye of juvenile officer, Mrs. Thurston.

Being a Big Story of a Real Sacrifice*Kashian Brothers Sell Rugs At Big Reductions To Help Destitute Relatives in Armenia

Ten years ago a pair of youthful Armenians came to this vicinity and established a modest but prosperous oriental rug cleaning business. The business came to be known along the north shore as Kashian Brothers Rug Cleaners. The Kashian brothers have enjoyed average prosperity, and pleasant and peaceful life far away from the turmoil and upheaval in the home land.

You will be surprised then, to hear that, in the face of these facts, M. and K. Kashian are quite unhappy.

Back in Armenia are two sisters, widowed by the gory hand of the "unspeakable Turk". Also there are their seven children, orphaned as a result of the furious massacres. They are in desperate circumstances, surviving by some happy trick of fate the death-dealing hand of the musselman, only to face what is probably a less humane death by starvation.

The Kashian brothers are determined to help. They are determined to make every sacrifice to help the dear ones who are in need. They will not rest until these dear ones are taken away from the scenes of carnage and misery and brought safely to the friendly refuge of America, the land that has been so kind to the Kashian brothers.

In order to realize this ambition the Kashian brothers have decided upon a plan to raise quickly the necessary funds.

It is planned to convert into cash a large part of the stock at the establishment at 1145 Greenleaf Ave., Wilmette. To accomplish this every rug is to be reduced in price from 15 to 25 per cent. Rugs are displayed at the Rambo Hat Shop, at 1168 Wilmette avenue. The shop will be open during the evening each day in the week throughout the period of the sale.

The Kashian brothers have sacrificed many conveniences and pleasures in the past few years to provide funds for destitute relatives in Armenia. They have gone to the extent of fitting up simple living quarters at the rear of their place of business to avoid high rentals.

Residents of the north shore who are in the market for real bargains will no doubt invite this opportunity for economy and lending aid to those who are in need.

A new lighting system has been installed in the club house and every precaution has been taken to render it absolutely safe and fire proof. From the proceeds of the Fourth of July food sale in the Common, in charge of the Social committee, it was possible to buy a number of much needed new chairs.

The Civics and Philanthropy committee, in charge of the recreational driving of the wounded men at Fort Sheridan reported that cars were sent to the Fort twice a week on the average of thirty cars per month.

It was announced that the club had decided to allow the American Legion the use of the club rooms twice a month free of charge again this year.

A very important question was brought up in regard to the possible increase of guest fees from twenty-five to fifty cents. No decision has been reached but the question is up for discussion.

Mrs. Porter especially urged all the members to read the announcement of Departmental Activities on pages 11, 12, and 13 of the new Year Book.

The following very important announcements were made:

The next meeting of the club will be held on October 21 at 2:30 o'clock. The program, a recital by Lucille Stevenson, soprano, and Gordon Stevenson, pianist, is in charge of the Music committee. A fee of twenty-five cents for guests will be charged. All the members are urged to co-operate with the Music committee in making this a profitable as well as a very delightful occasion.

The program of this first meeting of the club was in charge of the Civics and Philanthropy committee, the subject, "Platforms and Candidates of our Political Parties." The speakers for the various parties were:
