Unusual pains have been taken to make the play, which was written by Montgomery Major, a student, as artistic and beautiful as possible. Earl Fox's designs for costumes are very original and graceful. There is a large cast, the most important parts being taken by Ralph Bellamy, Dean Stevenson, Louise Durham, Melvin Wamboldt and George Shipman.

No admission will be charged, and a cordial invitation is extended to the public. The performance begins at 3:30 o'clock.

"The Home of An Educated Woman", was the subject of a most inspiring address given by Dr. Frederick F. Shannon, before the Wilmette Woman's club, for the benefit of the club, the meetings to commence at an early date. The Knowles-Favard system will be used. The charge will be 75 cents a lesson, in classes of ten.
