The American Legion reached the ten thousand post mark January 10, when Foss Post of Foss, Okla., was chartered in a membership campaign. A total of 10,044 posts was achieved the week ending January 21, which registered a gain of twenty posts. The Departments of Illinois and Indiana led the lists the last two weeks. Extensive activity in establishing new posts is indicated from Southern Departments of the Legion. Georgia is in the midst of a strenuous campaign; Louisiana seeks 10,000 members before the next state convention and Florida will start a drive for members soon.

Nearly one-half of the original forests of the United States remain uncut.

JANUARY MERELY AN ORDINARY MONTH, IS U. S. WEATHER WORD
 Let those optimists who write their Los Angeles friends of the "simply wonderful" weather we have been enjoying these January days, be advised that the United States weather bureau is not of the opinion that the month last past was anything to brag about. The mean temperature, according to the department of agriculture, for the month was 32.4 degrees, which in figures looks pretty mean at that. Let the meteorological bureau tell it in its own words: "The month as a whole was mild and dry," their bulletin states, "with no severe storms. The temperature record of January, 1880, was a mean temperature of 39.8 and that for this month was 32.4. "The total precipitation for the month was less than one-half of the usual amount and the snowfall was less than one-third. There has been an unusual amount of sunshine during the month, the sun having shone all day for seven days."
