

TOWNSHIP ELECTION CONTAINS INTEREST

James R. Crocker of Glencoe, injects a bit of excitement into rivalry for Justice of the Peace Offices

RUNS AS INDEPENDENT

Winters in South and Returns to North Shore To Find He Is Listed Among the Forgotten

With the Winnetka political situation the most serene and peaceful in years, and a strong, unopposed ticket in the field, residents are turning with more than ordinary interest to the New Trier Township election prospects, where obtains a peculiar and, withal, interesting situation.

Here we have the spectacle of an apparently shunned official rising up and injecting his own Independent ticket into the field against an array of five candidates for the five offices of justice of the peace.

James R. Crocker, Glencoe justice of the peace, is the lone candidate on the so-called Independent ticket. Opposing him on the North Shore Township (regular) ticket are Frederick B. Crossley, Jacob M. Dickenson, Jr., Otto Falk, Daniel M. Mickey, and George W. Tapper, Jr.

Tapper is a Glencoe man slated to replace Justice Crocker.

Crocker, it appears, had wintered in New Orleans and had given little or not thought to the approaching Township election which signified the expiration of his term and the consequent necessity of again going before the electorate in the event he desired to succeed himself.

While the justice was basking comfortably in the southern sunlight, township leaders bestirred themselves and formulated the regular ticket, known as the North Shore Township ticket. Crocker's name was omitted from the list of justice candidates.

The North Shore Township ticket is endorsed by the New Trier Citizens League, organized eight years ago and which counts on its membership roll leaders in every village in the township.

Justice Crocker returned post-haste, circulated petitions and launched the Independent ticket. Glencoe is the seat of the political fight. One may expect to encounter there the old fashioned stump speeches and some torch-light parades over this week-end.

Election Day for New Trier Township is Tuesday, April 5.

CAMP FIRE EXECUTIVE VISITS WINNETKA GROUPS

Winnetka Camp Fire Girls were honored, Wednesday afternoon by a visit from Miss Edith Kempthorne, national field secretary of the Camp Fire Girls' association. The Assembly room in Community House was crowded to capacity with Camp Fire Girls and those interested in the organization, and some groups were present from Wilmette and Glencoe.

Miss Kempthorne urged a vigorous health program, for without health one cannot give service and do the work in life one is meant to do. She said that over a million health honors had been won by Camp Fire Girls within the past year. She had a most interesting exhibit of Camp Fire things which she had gathered on her trip across the country. She has been speaking for two months in the larger cities of the west.

After the meeting she greeted the members of the Winnetka Camp Fire Guardians' association, and around the tea table, discussed the work of Camp Fire.

THIRD EPISODE APPEARS IN SCHROEDER-PERRY CASE

Realty Dealer and Aged Man Still in Line to Tell the Judge All About Their Controversy

Being the third episode of the now celebrated legal entanglements of Paul Schroeder, north shore real estate dealer, and one Franklin H. Perry, aged Glencoe resident. "Paul Schroeder and Maude Schroeder, doing business as Paul Schroeder and Company," instituted civil action against Franklin H. Perry in the Cook County Courts in a suit for $1,000, case to be heard on the second Monday in May which, according to calendar reckoning, falls on Monday, May 9.

Episode two: Case, Schroeder vs. Perry, before Justice D. M. Mickey in which Schroeder entered suit to obtain $300, represented as commission alleged to be due him from Perry in a real estate transaction, was withdrawn, it is said.

Episode one: Case, Perry vs. Schroeder, in which the aged Glencoe man charged Schroeder with assault, was dismissed in Justice Mickey's court several weeks ago when the justice decided there was insufficient ground for complaint.

Perry insists Schroeder has received "payment of the commission."

Of course you know where is the County court. Seating room only.

Dr. Jessie G. Forrester of Ocean Park, Cal., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Frederick F. Cain of 1229 Scott avenue, Hubbard Woods.
