

HINTS FOR THE GARDEN

Edited by David H. Stevenson,
Director National Home Gardeners'
Association

Editor's Note: This column is to be conducted continuously during the gardening season as an aid to amateur gardeners. The "hints" and careful instructions to be found in these articles are based upon expert investigation of the particular needs of the home gardener. If you have a garden you will want to be a constant reader of the "Hints for the Garden" column. Refer it to your neighbor gardener.

THE HOME GARDEN

(The Permanent Feature in every Family)

The question of home gardening does not concern a few, it concerns the large majority of the people of the United States. During the year 1918 there was more than a half a billion dollars worth of food produced in home gardens in this country. In and around Chicago alone there are more than a quarter of a million home gardeners. These people are home food producers and are anxious to get all the food they can from their ground with the least expenditure of money, time, labor and space.

The need for producing more food, particularly the fresh fruits and vegetables, which can be grown in all home gardens is greater now than ever before. Many good farms in the State of Illinois and all over the country are being abandoned. This decreases food production, but the demand for food steadily increases as our population increases, not to mention the increased demands for food made upon us by Europe.

Most people have taken up gardening as a recreation after working hours, and have not the time to make a study of it. What they need and want is concise, practical and up to date information that will make their work in the garden bring forth the greatest return.

This general need of the people has led to the formation of the National Home Gardeners' association.

The purpose of the association is to show people how they can raise fruits and vegetables profitably in their own yards and make their surroundings attractive. The plan of work of the association is, 1. To issue a monthly publication on home gardening which will contain the most authentic, timely and practical information. This publication will be the means of communication of the members with the organization.

2. To offer individual help by answering questions of members by mail.

3. To furnish free plans to modest home owners on the laying out of the yard.

4. To furnish the latest and best methods of conserving food produced in the garden.

This complete garden service, including the monthly publication, is offered to all for one dollar a year.

It is not always the lack of experience which makes gardeners unsuccessful. Experienced gardeners who lack the proper information make repeated failures. A case in point is that of an experienced market gardener of 30 years standing who lost his entire crop of potatoes because he did not understand how or when to spray them for the blight. The association will help all gardeners to avoid such unnecessary losses. Our aim is to keep people well informed and abreast of the times on the subject of gardening.

The association has the services of many of the foremost leaders in gardening in this country. Their years of observation and experience is made available in a practical form so that everybody can benefit from it. This is a civic organization, operated not for profit. Its entire income goes to promote its work.

The Weekly Talk will have in this column weekly articles on gardening furnished by the National Home Gardeners' association, 306 South

Wabash avenue, Chicago. Questions from the readers on home gardening are invited and will be answered in this column.
