Spring Exercise

Not even with the extension of golfing facilities through the community golf links is that pastime available to everybody. It requires a certain amount of leisure and a certain financial independence to be a golf enthusiast. But there is no reason on this account for any able-bodied citizen to fail in securing for himself the very best of exercise.

There are opportunities for healthful exercise held in other instruments than golf clubs, and none is better contrived to give the muscles just the right work than the ordinary garden rake. Nearly every household possesses one of these implements and those who do not may easily procure one at a very moderate expense.

Not everybody has a garden in which to wield the rake, but there is plenty of work for those who have no private plot in which to delve in those open places in the city where the debris of the winter has been allowed to collect and, unless experience has something new in store for us, will be permitted to stay. A community raking party would do more to beautify than any other civic activity and no campaign for funds would be necessary to start it going.

The body needs exercise at this time of the year. The lawns and parkways and vacant lots need the spending of a good deal of exercise upon them. The garden rake furnishes the necessary implement. The desire to use it is the only lacking element in a movement to set the community in a properly tidy condition and to put the citizens in that condition of health that will destroy the spring trade in tonics.

IVANHOE, LATEST GOLF PROJECT, ORGANIZING

One Hundred and Sixty Acres of Land Near Area, Ill., Leased for Moderate Means Golfers

What is considered will be the most democratic golf club in the vicinity of Chicago, a club within the reach of the person of moderate means, has been established at Area, Ill., under the name Ivanhoe Country club. The club is now in course of organization.

Plans for successfully financing this timely project were formulated only a few weeks ago and at a more recent meeting the organizers completed negotiations whereby the club secured a long-term lease on property comprising several buildings, said to be large enough to adequately house 500 members, and 160 acres of natural golf land with an option to purchase.

Ivanhoe is destined, according to the organizers, to become one of the greatest clubs of the present day. Membership fees and annual dues are said to be within the reach of almost everyone, and the average golfer is offered the opportunity to perpetuate some of his most cherished idiosyncracies. Among Ivanhoe's other possibilities are listed tennis, roque, bathing and a bridle path.

The first call for reservations at the National Convention of the American Legion in Kansas City, Mo., next fall, comes from Lewis F. Tuttle Post No. 54, of Anthony, Kan. And the request is for reservation for every member of the post. Anthony boasts a membership of ninety-seven per cent of the eligible men in the community, even reaching across the line and drawing a number of Oklahomans into its fold.

Plan Big Stadium At State University

Great Carnival Week to Launch Extensive Fund Campaign—Many Ex-Grads Here Interested

An entire week of celebration at which a Mardi Gras carnival, barbecue, pageant, snake dance, Stadium girl contest, parade and mass meeting will feature is being planned for the campus stadium drive the last week of April at the University of Illinois. Definite dates for these events have not yet been set, but preparations are being made for them daily.

One day will be given over to a big parade at which every organized house or unit will be privileged to have a float. These are to represent Stadium ideas and express stadium slogans.

To Award Prizes

Silver loving cups will be presented to the house having the best float in the opinion of the committee of judges. The R. O. T. C. brigade will also take part in the parade as well as the University bands.

The Mardi Gras will probably be the most elaborate feature of the week. It will be given out doors, possibly on Illinois Field, or in the orchards belonging to the College of Agriculture. It will include stunt shows of various kinds, pageants, booths for selling stadium souvenirs and music.

The barbecue will be held on Illinois field and may include the freshman cap burning. Mass meetings will be held all during the week, at which speakers will explain all the points regarding the stadium.

Plan Enlistment Day

One day of the week will be enlistment day.

The Carnival week and a subsequent Fund campaign is to be in the interest of the proposed erection of a huge athletic stadium at the state university. Alumni throughout the country will be enlisted in this mammoth campaign and the many ex-grads residing on the north shore will assume an important part in presenting this particular need to their friends in this vicinity. Illinois graduates residing on the north shore are numbered by the score.

In Our Basement Special Values are Offered

Bungalow Aprons special at 98c

Both light and dark percales, with neat designs, have been used to make these.

There are a number of different styles. Some have V necks with rever collars; others have square necks, open on the side, and are piped with tape. And still others have round necks and slip over the head—but, irrespective of style, every one is a 1.75 value.

Brassieres Lingerie Waists at 49c at 98c

Our basement offers real bargains in these bandeaus. There are flesh and white ones made of marquisette, tresco, poplin and figured fabrics, in qualities which have sold for 85c and 1.00. Both styles—the front and back closing models—are here in all sizes.

This is a group of slightly soiled blouses which represent values to 2.50. To move them quickly we have reduced them to only a fraction of their worth. There is a variety of models in all sizes.

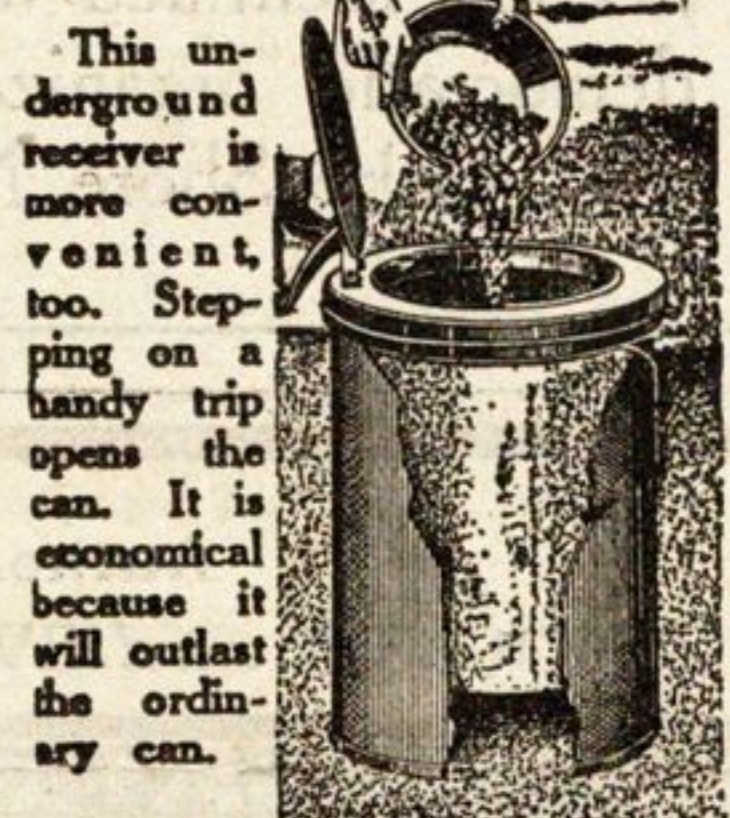

Silk Poplin Skirts at 2.50

A special purchase enabled us to procure these to sell at this low price. They are made of a nice quality of poplin, are gathered to a yoke, and have fancy pockets. The colors are black, navy, plum, gray, taupe and copen. Waist measure 26 to 28.
