

Being the Story That Harks Back To "Buccaneers"

On adventure bent, Charles A. Kinney, who, in the work-a-day world, is supervisor of manual training in the Winnetka Public Schools, and a group of Winnetka boys, are sailing the deep on the Great Lakes these days and having a great time of it, too. The "crew" embarked from Wilmette harbor several days ago and negotiated the distance to Sturgeon Bay, following the Wisconsin shore line, in 28 hours. But read Skipper Kinney's log notes appended and employ your imagination at will.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., En route to Camp Ah-wee-nee-tah, on the Island of Adventure.

We arrived here last evening (Tuesday) making the run from Winnetka in 28 hours, nine of which we were running in a very dense fog which necessitated frequent soundings. The first half of the trip we ran into frequent squalls and rainstorms but from Sheboygan north the weather has been remarkably fine and clear. Everyone in the party is in high spirits. The boys have been taking lessons in knot tying from Capt. W. W. Eger, who has been our guest on the cruise. Capt. Eger has commanded some of the largest ships on the lakes and his experiences have furnished an unlimited source of interest and enjoyment to all of us.

We leave for the island camp (Ah-wee-nee-tah on Chambers Island) in an hour, when we shall take possession of the island in the name of the "spirit of adventure" we call it the "island of adventure" and always take possession with appropriate ceremonies.

The Winnetka boys accompanying us are, Dan Kohlsaat, second mate of the "Dream Girl"; Bob Atwood, third mate; Webster Jackson, Jack Reasner, John Jewell, Stanwood Thompson, Alfred Alschuler, Jack Hunter and Leon Alschuler.

(I suppose I ought not give him away, but Captain Eger spilled out of one of the small boats before we ever got out of the Wilmette harbor).

Yours truly,
Charles A. Kinney.

REALTORS ENJOY BASEBALL, DINNER AND SOME DANCING

Members of the North Shore Real Estate board enjoyed the first Annual Outing of the organization, Wednesday afternoon, when they packed into a fleet of automobiles and drove to Cub's ball park at Addison and Sheffield avenues, Chicago. The ball game 'twixt the Cubs and the Pirates of Pittsburg provided the first event of the outing program.

After the ball game the fleet of realtors proceeded to the Marigold Gardens nearby for a sumptuous dinner and a session of dancing in the cool of the evening.

Representation at the first outing was reported as approximately 100 per cent of the board membership.

HIS OWN SLEUTH

William Quinn, 909 Willow street, reported to the police the theft of his bicycle last Sunday from Skokie Playfield. Quinn then turned sleuth and soon found the wheel in the possession of a nine year old Winnetka boy who had stolen it from the park. The youthful thief was not prosecuted.
