'The Instruments of the Orchestra' will be explained by Mrs. Marx Oberndorfer, illustrated by members of the Chicago Symphony, at the third Children's Concert at Ravinia Park, July 14, at 3:15 o'clock.

To those unfamiliar with the Orchestra, nothing is more difficult to understand than the variety of tones from the different instruments. To a child it is exceedingly fascinating, not only to watch the different methods used in playing on the various instruments, but also to try and tell which instrument is playing, when individual voices are heard.

In order that the less familiar instruments may be better understood by the youthful listeners at the Ravinia Park Concerts, this program has been arranged.

Mrs. Oberndorfer will describe in a simple manner the different families of instruments to be found in the orchestra, and how their tones are produced. Each individual voice will be heard, playing some well known selection taken from orchestral composition, which are familiar to the children.

The concert program following this talk on the instruments has been especially planned and will give each instrument in the orchestra an opportunity for an obligato passage. The following instruments will illustrate Mrs. Oberndorfer's talk. Flute, Oboe, English horn, Clarinet, Bassoon, French Horn, Trumpet, Trombone, Tuba, Drums.
