

NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF ENGINEERS CALLED

U. S. Commissioner of Education Prompts Movement

The United States Commissioner of Education is calling a second public conference on commercial engineering on behalf of a committee on commercial engineering appointed by him to investigate business training of engineers and engineering training for students of business.

The conference will be held May 1 and 2 at the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh. President Arthur Hamerschlag of this institution is a member of the committee which is composed of prominent deans of schools of engineering, and of commerce in our larger universities, and of engineers and business men who are nationally known for their interest in the reduction of the costs of production, distribution, transportation, etc., through better training in schools and colleges of the personnel of industry and commerce.

The conference will be open to the public. Invitations to appoint delegates to the Pittsburgh conference, however, will be sent by the Commissioner of Education to commercial and trade organizations, engineering and scientific societies, educational institutions and other groups as well as to prominent individuals.

Owing to the timeliness of the subject, the conference in Pittsburgh will even have greater national significance than the first public conference on this question, which was held in Washington two and one-half years ago under the direction of this committee on commercial engineering of which Dr. Glen Levin Swiggett of the Bureau of Education is chairman.

"The four major topics of the conference," says Dr. Swiggett, "will be presented and discussed at general and round table sessions by business men, educators and engineers, contributing to the construction of a cooperative program between education and business for the better co-ordination of all productive and distributive processes in trade and commerce. It is planned to have the second conference even more constructive than the first, since which time the curricula of 29 of the 119 engineering colleges reporting to the Bureau of Education have been favorably modified to include one or more of the four committee recommendations. Outstanding topics at the Pittsburgh Conference will deal with the new problems that have recently arisen in modern industries, the solution of which depends a more scientific approach to include job analyses and personnel specifications and a translation of these into a new and teachable content for use in our engineering and commerce schools; with the training of the engineer for a better understanding of problems relating to a community development; and with the training of the engineer for management of overseas engineering projects."

'MESSENGER BOY' RUFUS FINDS MATE

Hiker Who Carried Letter to Harding Finds Romance

Clarksburg, W. Va.—The overland courier who, through rain and hail and sleet, over high mountains and through deep passes, bore sealed messages to President Harding a distance of more than a thousand miles on foot from Danville, Ill., not only succeeded in his mission but has met romance on the homeward journey. After hairbreadth escapes from death, in which he swung from high railway trestles and faced starvation in the mountains of Kentucky, H. H. Rufus, 44 years old, plodded into this harmless looking little town and found the greatest adventure of all. The couple will be married in the spring.

In accomplishing his remarkable hike, Rufus, (now called "Harding's messengerboy") performed an unprecedented feat. He started last November from Danville with one cent and the instructions not to beg, borrow, or steal on the trip. In his 15-pound pack were four sealed letters from the Danville Chamber of Commerce which, six weeks later, he delivered in person to the President in the White House. "It was a wonderful trip, made by a determined man," Harding said. He also delivered a cigar to Joe Cannon.

Rufus has been dropping into American Legion posts along the way for a shave and a rest while darning socks, and his stories have become well known. When asked how he turned the trick, he smiled and says: "I was all eyes and ears, looked straight ahead, and got what I went after."
