THE CHURCH ACT

The churches of the North Shore have a mission worthy the founder of the institution in the attraction of the youth of their several communities to the congregations which they serve. If there can be accomplished thru the organization of the twenty-three churches something to correct the lax morals which are so deplored, if the standards of character can be raised, ever so little, there will be a record of service to humanity that will be an honor for all time.

Unity of purpose between the several denominations represented in the twenty-three churches, respect in each for what the others are trying to accomplish, recognition that the welfare of society as well as the future of the church depends pretty much upon the stemming of the trend of present day morals and ideals of conduct, ought to be mutually beneficial to church and public. It is a reasonable way to set about the redemption of the unredeemed, a practical way of advancing the character of the rising generation, a contribution to the future, that deserves the respectful consideration of the general public and the co-operation of the parents and older members of the community.

The "widow's mite" finds it is welcomed in the St. Francis hospital fund, as it was in that of the Evanston hospital recently taken up on "Hospital Sunday." Those in charge of the St. Francis drive report that contributions range from ten cents up. The truly democratic organization seeking public support and approval welcomes the small contributions as well as the large. Every contributor is a partner in the good will of the organization.

PRACTICAL SERVICE

Unrest in India has brought worry to the British government. Even the visit of the Prince of Wales and his accommodating disposition to be photographed in his practice of democracy has not been sufficient to make the natives of that vast country believe that there is any superior virtue in the white skin or that their future is more fully protected by the British than it could be under the leadership of one of their own race.

But two American women, established with their husbands who hold business positions in Calcutta, are looked upon as the workers of wonders and miracles because they are able to preserve the fruits and vegetables beyond the season of their culture by placing them in glass jars. There is the way to the Europeanizing of the people of India, show them ways to make their lives pleasanter and fuller, how to apply the knowledge that has been gleaned in the more advanced countries to the solution of their own problems, problems that include how to meet famine.

In the group whose lives they have touched it is safe to say that the two women who learned how to can fruits and vegetables at De Kalb normal school have contributed more in the advancement of the people and the contentment with conditions than has been achieved through any government agency or the condescension of the heir to the British throne in paying a visit to this mighty dependency of the crown which he will some day wear,—unless the twilight of the kings is entirely accomplished before that time.

Big armies must have grown passee. Here is a dispatch from Moscow saying that Trotsky will maintain a standing army of 1,640,000, and the news commands but a half dozen lines in an obscure corner of the newspapers. A few years ago such a statement would have been worth big black headlines.

Change of Location—

A more desirable and a permanent location having been secured, the Cadillac Evanston Branch has been moved to 1820 Ridge Avenue, where both sales and service departments are now established.

This at once makes recognized Cadillac Service easily available to North Shore owners, as both steam and electric stations are close at hand and cars may be left for repairs while en route to the city.

The service department is manned by experienced Cadillac workmen with long training in our Chicago Branch and is under our direct supervision.

An invitation is extended to call at this new Cadillac headquarters.
