

CROWD CHURCH TO HONOR LIEUT. ELY

Congregational Church Full to Doors as Dinsmore Ely Tablet is Unveiled

TABLET SHOWS LIFE

Immortal Words Penned by Hero Inscribed in Bronze

There was standing room only, at the Winnetka Congregational church last Sunday morning when the memorial tablet to Lieutenant Dinsmore Ely was unveiled.

As already stated in these columns, the tablet was designed by Prof. Chandler Stearns, professor of Architectural Design in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as a labor of love. The tablet was executed by Edward F. Caldwell and company of New York City.

In the service of unveiling Rev. James Austin Richards, the pastor, said: "Today we unveil and receive on behalf of the church a memorial tablet given by Dr. and Mrs. James O. Ely in memory of their distinguished son.

True Winnetka Youth

"Dinsmore Ely was born in Chicago May 16, 1894. Most of his life was spent in Winnetka, where he attended the Horace Mann and New Trier schools, before going to the Chicago Latin School to complete his preparation for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. At the Institute he was a student of architecture and would have graduated in one more year when the shadow of the great war fell across his plans.

"He went abroad with the first unit of the Technology Red Cross. Soon after arriving he entered the Lafayette Flying Corps, and later transferred to the Air Service of the United States. Four years ago last Tuesday he fell. Four years ago last Friday he died.

Uttered Immortal Ideal

"Athlete, poet, lover of nature and of little children, patriot and soldier because he believed his country's cause was right, was given to him a few days before his death, in a letter otherwise filled with the common talk of an American soldier, to capture in a single sentence the highest idealism of the American spirit, and utter it in form immortal. "By the wish of his parents, that saying is given a place of honor on the tablet, and at their suggestion his memorial tablet is placed near the doors most used by the children of the church of which he and they and his brothers are members."

The congregation then faced the tablet, beautifully concealed by two silk American flags, and stood in silence until the flags were dropped to the position where they seemed to be standing guard over the unveiled tablet. Mr. Richards continued.

Tablet Expresses Life

"The tablet is of bronze and of black marble. The designer writes that the governing thought in his work was that it must express life, not death. At the summit are the insignia of the Lafayette Flying Corps, encircled by a wreath of laurel and supported by palm branches and lilies, suggestive of victory in the service of France. The tablet reads:

"It is an investment not a loss
When a man dies for his country"

Beneath the inscription are the insignia of the American Air Service. During the progress of the design, a friend of Prof. Stearns suggested that the torches should be down turned, as the traditional symbol of death. Prof. Stearns replied that was exactly what he did not want to convey and therefore put the torches upright to illumine the inscription, suggesting the fact that such noble words can never die.

Typifies Service

"Framing the tablet at the sides are broken columns surmounted by helmeted heads of the gods of war, suggesting the breaking of life by them. On the columns are oval shields carrying the initials of the United States and of the French Republic. Woven into the design of the bronze base are fleurs de lis and stars, suggestive of Dinsmore's service in the forces of both France and America. By the use of cherubim flanking the inscription on the base, it is hoped to suggest that the spirit of Dinsmore is forever present with his proud but stricken parents."

TURN YOUR CLOCK AHEAD

Don't forget! That's what school teachers, ministers, railway officials and business people are telling the villagers this week. Don't forget to turn your house clock and watch one hour ahead last thing you do Saturday night, for beginning Sunday morning, April 30, this village, the entire north shore and Chicago will be on the Daylight Saving time schedule. Church services begin on Daylight Saving time. Suburban trains will operate on Daylight Saving time, in fact there's nothing to it but you'll be just one hour behind the time if you forget to turn that timepiece one hour ahead. That's all there's to it.
