

RED CROSS REPORTS ON 14 MONTHS' WORK

What is being done for the disabled ex-service man by the Chicago Chapter American Red Cross, is told in their annual report. Trained counsel and relief were given to 66,882 disabled men in fourteen months. For the men who have no homes arrangements were made to provide lodging and food; necessary clothing was provided and carfare.

Ninety-five per cent of the active cases are those of very ill men; men who are in hospitals or receiving outpatient treatment. Many of these men are not receiving compensation and the Red Cross must provide for the family as well as the men. The rent must be met and a regular allowance be given to cover the needs of the families so that the patient will not worry.

The men and families of our Allies who are residents in Chicago are cared for as our own.

Ex-service men from Chicago now in government hospitals have been provided with clothing and incidental needs. Men in the Chicago contract hospitals have been given service. In direct relief work $200,000 has been spent in fourteen months.

HOW DISTRESSING IS THIS ANNUAL VISIT?

(From The New Trier News)

"Why is Willie getting P in Latin?" and "What does a parenthesis on John's report card mean?" were a few of the posers offered our faculty last Thursday evening, when New Trier was opened, according to custom, to the parents of the township.

But it was not at all a sad affair. For there were some congratulations, and flowers in the halls, and a musical program in the auditorium to relieve the scholastic and stiffly cultured atmosphere of our factory of wisdom.

Over in the assembly room the band showed its prowess in a number of peppy pieces, and Mr. Schumacher delighted an appreciative audience with some clever work on the xylophone. There were also announcements for the benefit of the parents concerning a well-known subject—registration for next year, and summer school.

This reception has been an annual institution at New Trier.

THE KHAKI,
BLUE and GRAY

(MENO'S DAD.)

In little earth mounds, slowly greening,

That lie 'neath the bright suns of May,
Still forms in the khaki are sleeping,
At home or in lands far away.

And near are the mounds deeply
sodded,

That speak of the long years passed o'er,

For here are the lads of the "sixties,"
In the Blue, or the Gray they wore.

The sleepers at rest 'neath the fresh mounds

Were sired by the ones 'neath the old.
The khaki in which they are shrouded Blends Blue with the Gray in the mold.

The Blue and the Gray have been plighted,

Their glory we'll ever enhance.

The khaki has stood as their sponsor
By bloody baptisms in France.

The work of the sleepers is over,
The khaki boys' task has been done,
And this we will add to their story:
The Blue and the Gray they made one.

Our Nation neglects not our earth
mounds,

As bright suns bring flowers of May,
Wreaths that we strew for the khaki,
We'll strew for the Blue and the Gray.

Motorcops, Mud,
Punctures, Lost
Fish, What a Day!

Fred Brinkman, of the Brinkman grocery emporium went fishing last week-end, which fact, incidentally, is the least important item in his rather interesting journey into the northern Illinois lake region.

In the order of occurrence, Fred encountered certain very definite, one might venture, altogether annoying experiences.

In his haste to be the matutinal bird that caught the proverbial fish-bait, Fred was overtaken en route by a wary motorcop. Yellow slip! A bit later Fred's trusty machine annexed a puncture. Next, a kindly disposed farmer lad gave Fred some road information directions which took him through a twenty-mile detour of genuine prairie mud.

At the fishing place Fred had unusual luck. Eight big black bass comprised the catch and Fred got 'em all nicely "strung" when the string broke, and eight big black bass were unceremoniously consigned to a watery grave.

Homeward-bound Fred was again in haste, this time to get back before his gas gave out. Same motorcop, another yellow slip. Approaching Wilmette, another puncture.

Wasn't it a terrible day for fishing, we ask you?
