

FIRST HOSPITAL-COLLEGE CLASS GRADUATED THURSDAY

The first graduates of the Evanston hospital's combined nursing and college course, carrying with it the degree of registered nurse and bachelor of science, received their pins at special exercises held at the hospital Thursday, together with 14 other nurses who are completing the regular nurses' course. President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university delivered the principal address of the evening. The school pins were presented to the class by Mrs. James A. Patten. A reception followed the exercises.

Those who received the bachelor's degree from Northwestern in addition to their diploma from the hospital training school were Miss Sarah Louise Bixler, Mercedes, Texas, and Miss Muriel B. Smith, McGregor, Iowa. Both entered the training school with two years of college work to their credit.

Although the formal presentation of diplomas will not take place until next Monday, all the graduating nurses received their pins at the special exercises Thursday. Those who will graduate next Monday as registered nurses are Helen Louise Ashbaugh, Worthington, Minn.; Lucille Baer, Pendleton, Oregon; Nellie Alice Burdan, Ft. Madison, Iowa; Nina Belle Caldwell, Swanton, Nebr.; Myrtle C. Chalstrom, Joliet, Ill.; Grace May Cook, Morrison, Ill.; Florence Olivette, Howard, Birchdale, Minn.; Marie Martens, Chicago; Elsie Caroline Matson, Chesterton, Ind.; Helen Louise McCauley, Evanston; Esther Jeanette Nelson, Waupaca, Wis.; Helen Louise Stemple, Ft. Madison, Iowa; Lillian C. Thorberg, Mandan, N. D.

The graduating class this year is the second in size only to that of last year, which numbered 18. Next year's class will contain four nurses who will have completed the combined college and hospital course. Nine states are represented by the graduating class this year, Miss Ida B. Smith, directress of the hospital training school, said this morning.
