Radio Station, Rifle Range
Popular

Among the six hundred boys in encampment at Camp Roosevelt, Major F. L. Beals' unique boy-building institution now located near LaPorte, Indiana are: Archie Quirnbach of 934 Elm street, Winnetka, and Walter Edward Quinby of 1282 Asbury avenue, Hubbard Woods. Walter is a member of Company "E" of the R. O. T. C. battalion, while Archie is in the Junior Camp. Both boys are enjoying life at the camp immensely, and the proving themselves to be very worthy. Reports from their company commanders are highly flattering.

Large Radio Station

Real training is well under way. The camp has the largest radio station in northern Indiana. Classes are held daily, and a number of boys are keenly enjoying the course.

The rifle range is as popular as ever. There are two, the long and short range, and all boys in camp are working hard to win their marksmanship and sharpshooter medals awarded by the W. J. R. C.

Personal Supervision

Major Beals is himself in close personal touch with each individual boy, and outlines the courses to the best advantage of all in camp. "Of our four camps, this is by far the best," states Major Beals. "Ample proof of this is seen in the boys themselves. One look at them would convince any parent that they are receiving unlimited benefits from their camping experiences."

WINNETKA BOY SWIMS FOR FOX RIVER RECORD

Richard Prouty, the twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Prouty, last Friday swam the measured mile and a furlong on the Fox river, starting at Ford road and finishing at the North gate of the McHenry Dam.

This distance was covered without a stop and without artificial support of any kind.

The trip required an hour and six minutes, and the young man finished in good shape, joining in a baseball game after removing the heavy coating of vaseline in which he made the swim.

K. OF C. COUNCILS PLAN NORTH SHORE PICNIC

Knights of Columbus, from Ravenswood to Highland Park, inclusive, are planning the biggest sectional outing in the history of the order in this vicinity when Ravenswood, Newman, University and Ouilmette councils join in a picnic in the Forest Preserve at Glenview Sunday, August 27.

Preliminary arrangements for the picnic were made this week at a meeting of representatives of the various councils when William Napier of Wilmette was elected general chairman. Committees appointed to complete details for the picnic include the following north shore men:

Grounds: Otto Stordeur and Frank Kreusch; refreshments: Bill Napier, Peter Goldbach, George White and Nic Winks. athletics: Marshall O'Connell, Nic J. Miller and George Alles; prizes: Dennis Goggan, Bill Kreusch, Joe Sesterhenn and Joe Nilles; dance: Bill Hillinger, Joe Heinzen and John Miller; relief: John Selzer, Jim Hoffmann, Gregory Sheahan, Burt O'Connell, George Steiner, Thomas Napier, Frank Nolan, John Schopen, Frank Schopen, Nic Bederer, Andrew Schwall, Frank Schaefer, Leo Dean and John Huerter.

GOES SLOW, PINCHED— DRIVES FAST, DITTO

"Pull over to the curb," ordered motorcycle policeman Clement Ley, the Kenilworth guardian. Henry Peters, Chicago, obeyed the command and stopped his panting flivver.

"What's the idea?" queried Ley. "I'll tell you, officer," stated Peters. "Five years ago when I was driving through Wilmette, I was arrested for blocking traffic one Sunday afternoon. Now I always go through Wilmette about thirty miles an hour, so they won't have anything on me."

"You are not in Wilmette now," reminded Ley. "But you will be soon, for that is where Judge Mickey holds court."

Sure enough, the judge was there and fined Peters $10 and costs for speeding on Sheridan road.

"These people are not consistent," muttered Peters, while cranking the same flivver he was arrested in five years back.

Fourteen other drivers appeared in court and paid fines. They were: V. C. Spalding, Lake Forest, $20 and costs; Ralph Ver Haben, Chicago, $10 and costs; J. J. Findy, Chicago, $20 and costs; A. L. Quist, Chicago, $10 and costs; L. A. Carey, Chicago, $10 and costs; E. H. Whitmore, Chicago, W. A. Rosenfield, Chicago, $10 and costs; G. W. Nelson, Chicago, $15 and costs; A. B. Breen, Chicago, $10 and costs; G. R. Ostrowski, Chicago, $10 and costs; R. O. Klenze, Chicago, $10 and costs; Clarence Schulteis, Chicago, $10 and costs; H. B. Page, Chicago, $10 and costs.

CORRECTION

An item appearing in last week's "Social Activities" section of the Winnetka Talk referred to Mr. and Mrs. Allen Weinstock as engaged in a motor tour to Marietta, Ohio. This was incorrect, as it was Mr. and Mrs. Earl Weinstock who made the tour.

OF DISTINCTIVE

is a palpable impossibility. If a man is to operate with profit, somebody has to pay for everything. If you get something for nothing some other poor fellow has to pay for it. The hard part of that is that it works both ways.

We believe that the best way to do is to give a full hundred cents worth of value for every dollar spent with us—perhaps a fuller measure of service than can be obtained elsewhere for a like sum. And we're doing very nicely, thank you!
