

KINDERGARTEN SCHOOL RESUMES IN CHICAGO

Will Be Evanston-Wilmette School in 1923

Entering upon its 37th year as a specialist in "the business of childhood," the National Kindergarten and Elementary College on Michigan boulevard next Monday and Tuesday enrolled the largest student body in the history of the institution. All rooms in the six dormitories have already been allotted, it was announced at the college today, with a forecast that registration this year will reach the 300 mark in students from 33 States and several foreign countries, among which India is the most remote.

While the college plans to remove to Evanston-Wilmette, where a site has been purchased on Sheridan road for the establishment of a "national college of childhood," the increase in students necessitated acquiring an additional dormitory for this year in 2934 Michigan boulevard. By the leasing of the Emmet A. Thomas residence the college now has a row of six spacious houses from 2918 to 2954 Michigan boulevard, with a connected campus in the rear of these buildings.

Illinois Leads

Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Nebraska and Iowa lead in the number of applications for registration. In order follow Kansas, Minnesota, Ohio, Kentucky, New York, Pennsylvania and Texas. The average age of the students—freshmen, juniors and seniors—is eighteen and one-half years.

Monday and Tuesday business men and shoppers brushed past "sandwich girls" on duty at the gates in the principal railroad stations of the city. These girls, "big sisters" acquainted with the city and the loop "L" so confusing to newcomers, carried the blue and tan college catalogues aloft as beacons to incoming freshmen who notified the college authorities what clothes they would wear, but who, according to Miss Grace Hemingway, social director of the college, frequently exercise the feminine right to change their clothes as well as their minds and lead the "sandwich girls" to no end of complications in accosting strangers.

"See" Chicago

Following registration Monday and Tuesday, the first assembly of the year was held Wednesday afternoon, when students, faculty and representatives of the governing board met at the college. After a program of addresses, including further announcement on plans for the new college at Evanston-Wilmette kindergarten, games and folk dances were staged outdoors by alumnae, upperclassmen and new students. Excursions were planned for later in the week to introduce the new students to Chicago's parks and boulevards.

Mrs. Cornelia Coleman Burleson will be in charge of social activities in the college dormitories this year. Mrs. Burleson was dean of St. Margaret's Hall at the University of Indiana, and has also been connected with the University of Iowa. Additional new housemothers include Miss Florence Linnell, former kindergarten teacher of Pomona, Cal., and

TIP TO HOUSEWIFE FROM GRAPE GROWER

Co-Operative Associations Map Campaign

BY F. F. ROCKWELL
(Horticultural Editor, "Farm and Fireside")

The handling of a big perishable crop, such as Concord grapes, is one of the most interesting things in the whole field of agriculture.

To begin with, grapes seem to reach perfection only in a few limited areas. Michigan has long been famous as one of the localities in which the Concord grapes attain their best, and grape growing here attains the proportions of a big state industry.

Up to a few years ago, the crop was marketed by the individual growers. As is always the case with a situation of this kind, there was little attempt at grading the product. It was poorly packed for market, and the bulk of the crop was sold only in a few nearby cities.

The result of the situation was that
