

BUILD ADDITIONS TO COUNTRY DAY SCHOOL

Old Buildings Make Way for the New

In order to accommodate the increased number of students at the North Shore Country Day school, an extensive program of expansion has been entered into by officials of the institution.

Construction on the first of the group of proposed new buildings began this week. The new building will cost over $55,000 when completed and will be used as a high school. The complete building program calls for the construction of a three building unit. Some of the old buildings will be torn down in order to make room for the new structures. Other units will be added later.

Build Auditorium

It is planned, according to Perry Dunlap Smith, Head Master of the school, to build an auditorium on the front of the present gymnasium. The auditorium will have ample seating capacity for 400 people. Wings on each side of the auditorium will house the library, art rooms, administration and faculty offices. To the rear of the present gymnasium the new heating plant and the new gymnasium will be constructed.

In addition to carrying on the construction of the high school, which is to be finished by January, the school is also finishing the work on the hockey and football field just north of the campus. When this field is completed the Country Day school will have two football and two hockey fields at the disposal of its pupils.

Accommodate 350 Students

The construction of the new units will make it possible for the institution to accommodate 350 boys and girls. It is the policy of the school to keep the numbers of the boys and girls as near equal as possible. The Country Day school was established in 1919. It is run as a corporation not operating for profit, parents of the children having an interest in the institution.
