

PLENTY OF COAL FOR NORTH SHORE

Edinger, Coal Man, Gives Optimistic Interview

There is to be plenty of fuel for Wilmette householders this winter, according to C. F. Edinger, the well known north shore coal dealer.

"In every kind except certain sizes of anthracite there is a plentiful supply of coal on hand right now," Mr. Edinger says, "and it is certain ample supply will be maintained during the cold weather. Prices are favorable and steady and we do not expect material advances."

"We have as large a stock, perhaps even larger, as in any year at this season and we are still stocking up. The public, I feel safe in saying, need have no fears of a coal shortage this winter."

Mr. Edinger announces that he has taken his two sons, Clarence and Ralph, into the firm, thus making the business an exclusively local enterprise. Gradually recovering from an attack of severe illness, Mr. Edinger and his family, with the exception of the two elder sons, will leave soon to spend the winter at Miami, Florida.
