

PHOTODRAMAS

AT NEIGHBORING THEATRES

HOWARD THEATRE

William Farnum, that muscular, honest but stern visaged cinema leader whose best efforts have been given to plays that depict the mining fields, lumber regions and the like, comes to the Howard next Sunday in his newest production, "Without Compromise." This film, coupled with the Howard's usual satisfactory Sabbath attractions, will certainly beckon "crowded houses" to the Howard street palace.

William Farnum will remain at the Howard through Tuesday night, November 21, and will give place on Wednesday and Thursday, November 22 and 23 to "Slim Shoulders."

"The Prisoner of Zenda" will be the Howard feature Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the following week. Thanksgiving brings the photodrama "Arabia," while "East Is West," Constance Talmadge in the leading role, will be shown on Friday and Saturday, December 1 and 2.

Every bill an all-star bill at the Howard. And, then, there's always that Howard Orchestra Supreme. James Thatcher, conductor, and the Howard Grand Organ, Anita Sadler and Betty Gish, organists.

HOYBURN THEATRE

Priscilla Dean, as "Cigarette," the daughter of the regiment, appears in the most magnificent role of her marvelous career in "Under Two Flags," showing at the Hoyburn Theatre, Evanston, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. This photodrama, devised from Ouida's immortal novel, is characterized as one of the most romantic stories of adventure and thrill ever written.

Clara Kimball Young, long a favorite of the films, is on the Hoyburn program Thursday and Friday, November 23 and 24 in "Straight From Paris."

Saturday, November 25, at the Hoyburn marks the occasion of another of those gala children's programs. This time it will be "Jack and the Beanstalk." Every child will receive an attractive souvenir. There is a showing at 9:30 o'clock and another at 11 o'clock.

Herbert Rawlinson is shown in "Another Man's Shoes" on the regular Saturday bill at the Hoyburn.

The Hoyburn management is arranging a program of unusual interest for Thanksgiving week.

ADELPHI THEATRE

Why have Adelphi announcements been absent from this page for two weeks? Well, something has happened that is very nice to tell you about after a fortnight of silence.

Here it is. The Adelphi Theatre has been purchased by Newell and Retchin, proprietors of the Howard Theatre. The accompanying announcement will clear matters for Adelphi patrons.

"It is our intention to establish a permanent policy as to the prices of admission and quality of entertainment at the Adelphi," the new owners inform. "All pictures run at this house will be shown at a uniform price, and prices will NEVER be advanced for any reason whatsoever. We assure you that the same clean pictures as we have given to the patrons of our Howard Theatre will prevail here, and the standard we have established will be maintained. Only the best pictures will be shown. Continuous matinees on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Next Sunday's leading attraction at the Adelphi (Clark street at Estes avenue), will be Tom Mix in "Do and Dare."

Constance Talmadge in "East Is West," heads the program on Monday and Tuesday. "To Have and to Hold" is booked for Wednesday and Thursday and "Wildness of Youth" will be shown on Friday and Saturday.

Reopen Evanston Strand as Motion Picture House

The Evanston Strand Theater will open in about a month as a first class motion picture show house, it was announced recently by Clyde E. Elliott, who purchased the theater last week from the Evanston Amusement company.

Workmen have completed the remodeling of the interior. Decorators are at work this week.

J. E. O. Pridmore has been engaged by Mr. Elliott as supervising architect. He will entirely remodel the building, refurnish the interior, decorate elegantly, and will install big comfortable seats. The theater will have practically a new front.

Mr. Elliott is an experienced movie man. He opened Orchestra Hall when it took over motion pictures, and was for one year director of the Ziegfeld theater on Michigan avenue in Chicago, and has been engaged as distributor of high class moving picture films throughout the middle west.

George B. Winter and Tom Leahy represented the stockholders who sold out. Charles Graves, attorney, handled the legal end. Ralph R. Obchain represented the purchaser.

Mr. Elliott said this week that while the theater will be operated as a high class motion picture house, it will be adequately staged and lighted and in every other way equipped so that dramatics or other public entertainment can be handled. He said that he has come to Evanston to give Evanston and north shore people the kind of entertainment they indicate by their patronage that they desire, be it high class motion pictures, a stock company, or vaudeville.

The purchase price of the theater was about $100,000.

H. J. Wienold, who has been associated with Mr. Elliott for a number of years, will act as house manager for the new theater, Mr. Elliott announces.
