'RAGS TO RICHES,' COMMUNITY PICTURE

Why is it that the appeal of the theme of the boy's rise from rags to riches is eternal and unending, having a powerful hold on young and old alike? And why is its message universal? The answer to these questions is given in "Rags to Riches," the Harry Rapf production sponsored by Warner Brothers, which is announced for next Friday at the Community House.

Freckled, inimitable Wes will be remembered by all who saw him in "School Days." He typifies the unconquerable spirit of youth and its adventurous strain, which he always succeeds in communicating to his audience.

"Rags to Riches," adapted from Charles A. Taylor's celebrated stage play, centers about young Marmaduke Clarke, a wealthy little child, who frets under the artificial formality of his home, and pines for little action. He gets his chance in discovering a burglar in the house. When the second-story artful escapes Marmaduke pursues him and becomes his pal. Then the two roam through the country, while a gang of desperate crooks shadow them for the tempting reward offered for Marmaduke. How the lad helps to corral the crooks makes for a climax which is exciting and refreshing.

Skokie Basketball Teams Get Edge on Country Day

In the Skokie-North Shore Country Day Inter-School Basketball League the Skokie school seems to have the edge, for H. P. Clark's tossers have won the two inter-school games that have been played to date.

Boys in the Skokie and Country Day schools have been divided into six teams. Four of the teams are composed of Skokie boys. In the initial games the Skokie Shawnees, captained by Bill Foule, defeated the North Shore Lynx 22 to 6; the Skokie Stags, under Captain O. Anderson, beat the North Shore Wolves by a 1 to 0 score in a forfeit game, and the Skokie Sagamores, led by Captain D. Anderson, walloped the Skokie Swallows to the tune of 24 to 11.

Skokie girls are also organized into a league intra-mural competition only. In the preliminary games the Red Wings, led by Alison Cook, beat the Savages in a close game, which resulted in a 28 to 22 score.

More games in each series are to be played off this week, according to H. P. Clark, director of physical education at the Skokie school.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING

There is to be a meeting of the Parent-Teacher association in the Assembly room of the Horace Mann school Wednesday evening, Feb. 7.

GARDNER WINS PRAISE FOR SMOOTH CONTROL

Five-Bearing Crankshaft Eliminates Vibration

"It is truly a car that the women like to drive," remarked Mr. W. L. Hays, manager of the Evanston branch of the Lexington Chicago company, distributors for Lexington and Gardner several tend directly to many compliments, especially from women, on the easy handling and controlling of the Gardner. Among the many improvements on the new Gardner are several tend directly to safety and ease of control. The improved Gardner clutch operates with fifty per cent less pressure than was formerly required and is easier, I believe, than any other low or medium priced car. Also, the emergency brake which is direct on the drive shaft, operates so smoothly that just a touch on the convenient brake handle and the Gardner comes to a standstill.

"The improved Gardner motor with the five-bearing crankshaft insures flexibility without the least vibration, and the almost unlimited power that is there at your touch enables the driver to run evenly along at a pace slower than a walk, but a touch on the accelerator, and the Gardner picks up without an effort and travels along at a high rate of speed. The reserve power permits one to drive, in high gear, behind the slowest moving team on the roads.

"Unusually large tie-rod bolts well lubricated, is another feature that insures easy steering. Women drivers appreciate these conveniences as well as the attractive appearance, roominess and comfort of the new Gardner. It is truly worthy of its slogan 'All that a four can save—All that a six can do.'"
