

Keep ahead of your coal requirement

The present coal situation requires that every individual using coal in any quantity should, for their own protection, keep close tab on their coal supply. Co-operation between the consumer, the retailer, and the wholesaler, would tend greatly toward eliminating what might be termed local coal shortage. By co-operation we mean, ordering your coal in plenty of time ahead before your supply on hand gets too low for protection against inevitable cold snaps. This would avoid an on-rush of orders, which nearly always taxes the retailer beyond his capacity.
