

COLLEGE CAREER IS ESSAY PRIZE

High School Students To Be Contestants

For the fourth successive year, high school students of the nation are to be given opportunity to win the largest single educational award offered in the United States, according to a statement by the Highway Education board at Washington this week.

The award is the H. S. Firestone Four Years University Scholarship, providing not only tuition, but room, board, books and special fees for the student writing the best essay in the annual good roads essay contest. The assigned subject of the essays to be written is "The Influence of Highway Transport Upon the Religious Life of My Community."

700 Hundred Word Essays

Announcement of the contest is being made to superintendents of schools, high school principals, and students as rapidly as possible, and all available literature is being listed and tabulated for the information of the prospective contestants. The board announces its willingness to answer any inquiry students and teachers may desire to make, it points out that all that is necessary in compliance with the simple rules of the contest, and the preparation of a 700 word essay on the subject. Essays should be submitted to the high school principal by May 1.

The contest, known to thousands of students throughout the United States and territorial possessions as the "annual good roads essay contest," is the most sustained competition of its kind. Inaugurated in 1920, it has provided a college education for three students, one boy and two girls, and its maintenance from year to year is assured by the donor of the scholarship, Harvey S. Firestone, Akron, Ohio.

Unique Subject

This year the subject is regarded as unique and unusual, bringing up for discussion the relation of improved transportation to the moral tone of the religious life of the community. Leading churchmen have expressed their approval of the discussion the essays are to bring about, while distinguished educators have given their approval to the contest itself. In past years the subjects have been broader, and more general, the subject for 1922 dealing with the improved transportation and the growth of the community as a whole.

Previous winners have been Miss Katherine F. Butterfield, Weiser, Idaho, 1920; Miss Garland Johnson, Bridgeport, West Virginia, 1921, and in 1922, Karl G. Pearson, Washington, District of Columbia. Miss Butterfield is in college, but Miss Johnson and Mr. Pearson, not being seniors when the scholarship was awarded them, have remained in high school until their courses are completed. They both will enter college this year, Miss Johnson at the University of West Virginia, and Pearson at a university in Kansas, his home state.

The best three essays from each high school are to be submitted to state headquarters, where the best essay from commonwealth will be chosen. One essay from each state and territory will then come to the Board at Washington, D. C., there to be handed a national committee to be named by Dr. John J. Tigert, U. S. Commissioner of Education. The national committee will award the scholarship.

Inquiries should be addressed to the Highway Education board, Willard Building, Washington, D. C.

CHINESE YOUTH YOUNGEST DEAN

Northwestern Dental Student To Open School

The youngest dental college dean in the world will be graduated from the dental school of Northwestern university this June. T. Y. Zee, a Chinese student, will be 25 years old when he takes charge of his school in China. Mr. Zee, before assuming his duties, will cross the Pacific three times, a distance of more than 15,000 miles, to survey the new buildings and to order equipment which he expects to buy in the United States.

The Young student's plans became known according to William J. Farquharson secretary of the Northwestern Dental school when Mr. Zee asked permission to be absent during commencement week. Mr. Zee who is known in China as Zi Tsauh Yoong wished to catch a boat for his native land at that time in order to reach China, school, return to this country to order his supplies, and get back to prepare the school for the opening in the fall.

Seeks American Teachers

Mr. Zee hopes to persuade three or four of his classmates to go with him as instructors in the new college, which is being promoted by native Chinese, among whom is Mr. Zee's father. Later the young dean expects to send some of the native Chinese dentists to Northwestern for a finishing course to prepare them as teachers. Mr. Zee has arranged for use in his school of texts by Dr. Arthur D. Black, dean of Northwestern Dental school.

Mr. Zee was born in Shanghai in 1898 and received his preparatory education in schools and colleges of that city. On completion of his work there he came to Northwestern in 1919 for his professional training. Mr. Zee's standing in dental subjects is high and he is popular among other members of the school. He has shown a natural aptitude for dentistry that members of the faculty have observed as marked among Chinese students.
