At Neighboring Theatres

The New Evanston

This week end at the New Evanston will witness the Spring Style Show with live models in evidence. The show is given in co-operation with leading Evanston shops and department stores.

George Melford's production, "Java Head" is the screen attraction for this week.

Beginning Monday, April 9, and continuing through Wednesday April 11, New Evanston patrons will be delighted with Marian Davies' latest success, "Adam and Eva." This is Miss Davies' first production since, the "When Knighthood was in Flower" and has been hailed by critics as one of her notable achievements. It is an up-to-date comedy drama that enjoyed a solid year of unusual success in its legitimate run on Broadway.

Betty Compson will be the New Evanston attraction for three days beginning Thursday, April 12. The vehicle is "The White Flower," a Paramount picture and a story replete with romance and mystery.

Hoyburn Theater

Another week of great specials is planned by the Hoyburn theatre beginning Monday, April 9.

Douglas McLean, favorably remembered as the star of "The Hottentot," will grace the program on Monday and Tuesday in "Bell Boy 13," a picture "full of fun from start to finish." Bull Montana will be an added attraction with his "Ladies Man."

The Delta Gamma sorority will take over the Hoyburn on Wednesday, in a benefit performance. Will Rogers will be seen on this occasion in "The Headless Horseman," taken from Washington Irving's classic, "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow."

The Hoyburn program for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 12, 13 and 14 will bring and all-star cast in the interesting play "What a Wife Learned." Members of the cast include Milton Sills, Marguerite De La Motte and John Bowers.

Buddy Messenger, one of the bright lights in "The Flirt," will be at the Hoyburn on Thursday, Friday and Saturday in "Smarty."

Howard Theater

Tom Mix annexes the limelight at the Howard for Sunday April 8, in his very latest thriller, "Three Jumps Ahead," a film that is said to eclipse any production that dynamic star has ever attempted.

Next week will be one of the Howard's biggest week's of the year. Beginning Monday, April 9 will be shown that remarkable film, "The Christian," rated by critics as among the six best recent productions. "The Christian" will show on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

On Thursday, April 12, Laurette Taylor makes her screen debut at the Howard in "Peg O' My Heart," made famous by her on the legitimate stage. The screen version of the great play was achieved under the personal supervision of David Belasco and is reported one of the very best pictures of the season. "Peg O' My Heart" will show on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Pictures to be seen soon on the Howard silver sheet are "Heroes of the Street," starring Wesley Barry; "Mad Love," with Pola Negri in the leading role, and "The Pilgrim," Charlie Chaplin's latest release, acclaimed by most critics as his superlative achievement.

Adelphi Theater

Mary Pickford will beckon to Adelphi patrons in the opening programs for next week at the Clark street playhouse. "Tess of the Storm Country," in its modernized version, is Miss Pickford's offering. It is a remarkable film from every standpoint and in it Miss Pickford again justifies her calling as America's Sweetheart. The film will be at the Adelphi through Tuesday, April 10.

"Java Head," with a picked cast of stars, will be seen at the Adelphi on Wednesday, Thursday, April 11 and 12.

Sir Hall Caine's "The Christian" comes to the Adelphi for Friday and Saturday, April 13 and 14. Richard Dix, Mae Busch, Gareth Hughes, Phyllis Haver and Marlowe Hamilton are the stars in this super-drama that has been selected by critics as one of the best releases of the new year.

By the way, it isn't generally known that Mary Hay is writing the music for a play in which she will appear next season. Little Mrs. Barthelme is an accomplished musician, but this will be the first occasion for the public to applaud her talent—"Photoplay Magazine" for April.

Elsie Ferguson, while making scenes for "Varying Shores," a forthcoming picture, met a charming old lady in Virginia who gave her a recipe for a fruit cake, and thus laid the foundation for the Elsie Ferguson Fruit Cake Company, making fruit cake in a large way.

The demand continues for Valentino pictures, and there are no Valentino pictures to be had; so some of the old releases are bringing big money "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" is commanding more money than some of the recent films.

ORIENTAL RUGS

We have just received a new importation of Gorevans from our agents in Sultanabad, Persia.

The prices at which we are able to sell them are the lowest in our history and the rugs are as fine as any of this type that we have ever received.

Gorevans are highly esteemed by connoisseurs for their original (untreated) beauty and excellent wearing quality. They are ideal rugs for the home—harmonizing with almost any color scheme—and many of them have the deep, rich, inconspicuous colorings that make them especially suitable for office use.

Put your "thinking cap" on when considering these amazing values.
