

RATTLER FIRST 'HYPO' NEEDLE

Says New Trier Biology Exhibit at Evanston

Visitors to the Evanston public library are having the opportunity to see several unusual animal specimens collected by L. E. Hildebrand for the biology museum of New Trier Township High School.

Odd little notations on many of these objects give an added interest to the exhibit. Of the scorpion, for instance, which has been neatly mounted in a bed of cotton. Mr. Hildebrand says it is not as dangerous as often supposed, being little more injurious than the bumble bee.

How many have seen what they thought was a humming bird, and found it was something different? In all probability, according to another notation, it was a hawkmoth, such as is shown mounted.

Calm shells which are used for making pearl buttons, and then for paving roads, a forest rattler, "its fangs the original hypodermic needles," a soft shelled turtle, "very intelligent, with neck which can stretch almost length of shell" a trap door spider, and many others are among the collection. Some are taken from points as near as Wisconsin and Michigan.

In one of the cases is a collection of arrow-heads loaned by James H. Hammill of Oak Park, many of which were found in Evanston, and of recent date. One, for instance, is marked "Hospital grounds, 7-12-22." Mr. Hammill will speak on "Why this Site Was Chosen," at the dedication exercises of the Indian Village Marker, on the hospital grounds Saturday afternoon of this week.

Athletic Test Given Wilmette Boy Scouts

Fifteen Boy Scouts from troop 1 to 5 were given tryouts for athletic merit badges by L. T. Todd, director of physical education in the Wilmette schools, last Wednesday afternoon.

The boys were divided into three classes or weights. In each weight there were four athletic events—the broad jump, high jump, shot-put and low yard dash.

Records which the boys made will go before the Boy Scouts Court of Honor which will award the merit badges.

Rooms C and D of the eighth grade played off another game in the championship series after the tryouts.

Invite Children To See "When the Toys Awake"

Wilmette children, friends of the alumnae of the National Kindergarten and Elementary College, have been invited by the students of the college being trained to be kindergarten teachers, to attend a complimentary performance of "When the Toys Awake" to be given Saturday morning, May 12, at 10:30 o'clock on the young people's floor of Marshall Field and company. The story of "When the Toys Awake," as given by the Kiddie Kompany of the National Kindergarten and Elementary college, is one of rebellion against inaction, the toys appealing to "The Little Girl" to free them from the dull and monotonous routine of the nursery, and to permit them to take their true parts in the great world.

ANNUAL OPEN HOUSE
The Annual Open House and Reception to the parents and friends of New Trier will be held on the evening of May 26. Make your plans to include this event.

A Rear View of the Cadillac
Three-Quarter Platform
Spring Suspension

CADILLAC

The Cadillac three-quarter platform spring suspension, by reducing the stresses on the rear of the frame, minimizes body distortion and keeps doors from springing.

Absorbing road impacts with great resiliency, the springs on one side communicate the shock through the crosswise springs to those on the other side, giving extraordinarily comfortable riding qualities and reducing the wear on the driving members.

It is because of these advantages that, though more costly than the conventional spring construction, Cadillac has continued to use this spring suspension on more than 200,000 Cadillacs.
