

TAX CUT ANNULS FORMER SLASHES

Township Assessor Gives Additional Facts

In a communication explaining the operation of the 15 per cent horizontal reduction in the cash valuations of real estate and building property in Wilmette, George R. Harbaugh, township assessor, made it clear that the general reduction annulled all decreases made in individual cases prior to the general cut.

According to the assessor this stipulation was made one of the conditions of the granting of the horizontal decrease. This action was taken in order that no one should profit doubly by the general reduction in cash valuations.

Mr. Harbaugh's communication follows:
Editor Lake Shore News,
Wilmette, Ills.
Dear Sir;

Referring to the article in your issue of the 3rd, inst. relative to the horizontal decrease in Wilmette valuations, I believe it should be mentioned that prior to the determination to make the horizontal decrease, a number of decreases had been made by the assessor's office, and one of the conditions of the horizontal decrease was that all decreases theretofore made should be restored to the original figures, so that none should doubly profit by the horizontal decrease. I think that all the facts should be placed before the property owners. It should also be borne in mind that the new values obtained from the assessors are the full values and should not be compared with the last year's tax bill without first dividing the new valuations by two. It was the failure to divide the new values by two that caused all the talk about 100 and 200% increases where in fact the increase was not more than 10% if any. Will you be good enough to mention the above in your next issue.

Yours very truly
GEORGE R. HARBAUGH.

Public Service Co. Sees Residential Growth Here

A fifty percent increase in new connected power load in the territory of the Public Service company shows that great industrial strides, as well as the opening of many new residences, have been made in this vicinity.

The growth of a community is measured in part by the volume of electricity it uses, officials of the public service company report. The load is fifty percent greater this year than for the same time last year.

The company has installed more electric ranges than were put in service during all of 1920, they further report. Compared with 1922, the 1923 score is practically even as to the five months' period considered.

The company states that the number of houses wired in the first five months of the year exceed by nearly 70 per cent the number wired in the corresponding period of 1922.
