A Reserve in Time of Stress

Every business has its trials and tribulations—periods when there is a need for ready capital at once. Unfortunately, money is not always available on the moment and disaster sometimes results.

But any business can protect itself by a sinking fund or reserve. Deposit certain amounts at regular periods—and forget this money, as it were. In a short time you can weather the severest financial storm.

If no reverses call this reserve into play, you can invest the money in sound securities and secure permanent stability for your enterprise.
