

FISK SINGERS HERE ON TUESDAY, NOV. 27

The Fisk Jubilee Singers will appear in the Winnetka Congregational church on the evening of November 27.

The negro spirituals and plantation melodies which they will sing are representative of America's only group of folk songs and have inspired such compositions as Dvorak's "New World Symphony," Kroeger's "Ten American Sketches," Schoenfeld's "Rural Symphony," Chadwick's "Second Symphony" and other selections. These melodies, composed and sung in the southern cotton fields secretly, were first brought to public attention by the original Fisk Jubilee Singers in 1871, when they started out to enlist support for their school—then but five years old. American audiences accorded them such a reception that they ventured a trip overseas where the Old World gave them and their songs a tremendous ovation.

Ever since then the Music department of Fisk university has carefully collected and recorded for posterity all the negro spirituals it could discover, and has sent on tour a trained group of singers to carry their simple message of hope and goodwill to audiences all over the country.

GROCERY BUSINESS ENLARGES SERVICE

Sam Salvadore di Francisco, proprietor of the Hubbard Woods Grocery and Market, is on the job again. The big "money-saving sales" he used to advertise in the columns of Winnetka Talk are to be resumed with renewed vigor. Mr. di Francisco announced this week when he entered into an agreement with the Talk for a campaign of consistent advertising on an ambitious scale.

The Hubbard Woods Grocery and Market plans to spread its business throughout the north shore. It has contracted for big advertising space in the three Hollister, Inc., publications—Wilmette Life, Winnetka Talk and Glencoe News, and has instituted an auxiliary delivery service that will reach into the most remote corners of the township.

Richards to Speak on Recent Church Council

Since his talk to the Young People's club about the great National Council of Churches that he recently attended in Springfield, Massachusetts, Rev. James A. Richards, pastor of the Winnetka Congregational church, has been asked to speak on the same subject from this pulpit, and he plans to do so Sunday morning, November 18.

He will speak again on some of the aspects of the Council discussed in his former talk and take up other matters for which there was not time that night. "If something of the high spirit of the Springfield meetings could get loose in this community it would do us all good," Mr. Richards declares.

LEGION BULLETIN

Winnetka Post No. 10

The Post Armistice Night at Riverside Inn proved an unqualified success. Commander Lynch, in his inaugural address, gave a straight-from-the-shoulder talk, calling upon every member to put forth his best efforts to strengthen the post and enlarge the membership. The boys gave "Tommy" a big hand.

At the regular meeting Tuesday night of this week, the Post declined the offer of the North Shore Players to give a benefit performance in Winnetka under auspices of the Legion.

Members are urged to get to the Post meetings promptly at 7:30 o'clock in order that everybody may participate in the snappy business meeting, so that the social program can begin at 8:30 sharp.

The Post mailing list is being carefully checked and revised where necessary to make certain that every member is getting his mail and the notice of Post Doings.

A drive for new membership is in progress with 100 percent as the goal.

Sarg's Marionettes to Be Seen Here December 4

Tony Sarg's famous marionettes will appear in the Jane Kuppenheimer Memorial hall of Skokie school Wednesday afternoon, December 4, in presentations of "Red Riding Hood," "Hansel and Gretel," "Monsieur Le Capitaine," and "Ching and Chang."

The productions will be under personal supervision of Rachel Bussey Kinsolving, who produced the Marionettes in Winnetka last winter.
