

feel that we, who came under her influence, were very fortunate.

We had no singing, no art, not even a picture on the walls of our school. Everything was as primitive and formal as possible—still we loved it. Competition was keen and interesting, and the school was about our only place for social contact. I look back upon my school life as having been exceedingly happy.

It has been interesting to me to watch the educational changes which have come during my teaching career. We have passed from that day of cold formality, to our present schools in which children are self-expressive and responsible. Compare with my first school curriculum of reading, spelling, arithmetic, geography and writing the one which our boys and girls now enjoy—supervised play, music, art, shop, science, dramatics, rhythm, and social studies, in addition to the tool subjects.

Though the children during those early days seemed much more mature, our children today at the same age are not only much better informed on many subjects, but they are more perfectly developed physically.

The teacher, also, works under different conditions—shorter hours, fewer children, supervisors to assist, beautiful buildings and quantities of interesting material.

I am glad that my early school days as well as my years of experience as a teacher have been spent in Winnetka. Each year has been filled with pleasant experiences and delightful associations with children who have come to me and the parents and the fellow teachers with whom I have been associated.

Parochial Schools In Education

By REV. F. J. HEARTH
Sacred Heart School

The Catholic Church, mindful of her mission to teach all nations, has ever been the friends and promoter of every education activity of the human race. Wherever she established herself, schools of learning were founded. It is a historical fact that all leading Universities of Europe were founded under the auspices of the Catholic Church. She has been at all times the patroness of art and science; the great artists of the past have been members of her church, receiving their education in her schools; scientists, such as Pasteur, Marconi and many others, have risen from her ranks.

Coming to our own Country, we find her schools, academies and universities in all of the leading cities of our land and in all parts of the country.

It was at all times the belief of the Catholic Church that any system of education must cover all the faculties of the human being; that is to say, education is not complete unless the mind, soul and body of the child be trained towards perfection. Hence a complete system of education must develop the mind, soul and body of the child.

Since our system of education in this Country, under constitutional limitations, cannot teach religion, the Catholic Church has established her Parochial Schools. She believes that the soul of the child, or call it the will and heart of the child, can be taught and developed towards virtue and perfection only by religious training. We found by sad experience that the policeman's club or law making do not make a moral people. Sunday Schools, a poor makeshift for religious training, have been found inefficient and unsuccessful in giving to our youth that sound and practical morality which tends to make good citizens.

Therefore the Catholic Church does not criticize the Public School for what it is or for what it does but for what it is not and for what it cannot do, namely: teach morality, based on religion, to the child. If a system of public schools could be established in which the child could receive religious education according to its belief, as is established in many countries, the reason for the existence of the Parochial School would be removed.

I wish, in this connection, to call the attention of the general reader to the fact that the Catholics of this country are double benefactors to the Public Schools: for they pay their school taxes as cheerfully as other taxpayers and besides keep their children in the Parochial Schools, thus making place in the Public Schools for other children. If the 125,000 children in the Parochial Schools of the Chicago Diocese alone would be released and these schools closed what would the Public School authorities do since even now there is an admitted lack of space of over 60,000 desks and the burden of school taxes will be greatly increased and the double platoon system introduced to care for this deficiency? Could even Winnetka take care and seat the 100 pupils of my school if it were closed today?

In conclusion I wish to state and repeat that the Catholic Church is not opposed to the Public School as such, because she recognizes the right of the State to educate its children to good citizenship; her quarrel is with what the Public School cannot, under the present laws, do: give to the child a sound moral and religious education, which is the paramount and most necessary part of Education.

LEAGUE ITEMS

The department of Efficiency in Government, under Mrs. Florence Bennett Peterson, chairman, is an agency for citizenship inquiry and information. The general principle upon which the work is based is that "knowledge must supplant guess-work and ignorance in public affairs." The aim is to establish an intelligent citizenship. Our city charters may be changed, our ballots shortened, or new constitutions made, without making a real educator out of an illiterate or uninformed populace. Men and women cannot register their minds at the polls unless they have minds to register. The voter who makes up his mind without study or information is no source of strength or information to any government.

The department of international cooperation to prevent war, under Miss Mary E. McDowell, chairman, whose purpose is to create an enlightened public opinion on all questions relating to international affairs, especially on matters that jeopardize the peace of the world, will have an interesting program.

The Committee on Child Welfare, under Mrs. Edward W. McCready, chairman, will take up a discussion of the public protection of the health of mothers and children, children in need of special care, recreation, and child welfare legislation.

There will also be programs given by the Citizenship Training Committee under Miss May Wood Hinman, comprising (1) citizenship schools and training courses; (2) the work of investigation and compilation; and (3) practical activities.

The Committee on Education, under Mrs. Minnie H. Prince, Chairman, and the Committee on Living Costs under Mrs. Mary Day Harris, Chairman, the Committee on Social Hygiene under Dr. Rachel Yarros and Miss Jennie Binford, co-chairmen, the Committee on Women in Industry with Mrs. B. Frank Brown, Chairman, and the Committee on Uniform Laws Concerning Women, with Mrs. Sophonisba P. Breckenridge, Chairman, will have very interesting programs pertaining to their particular line of work.

The Appeal of the World Court

States to take the necessary steps to effect the entrance of the United States into the Permanent Court of International Justice.

It is hoped that as many signatures as possible of men and women who believe that international disputes should be settled by law instead of war be obtained. The value of a mile of signatures from Illinois being sent to President Coolidge would be great, and the effect upon him, if each state does likewise, would be equally important. The President and the Representatives in Washington have a right to hear directly from their constituents. In this way they may learn how many people in the country believe that the World Court is one of the first steps in the ultimate establishment of peace. These petitions will be at Community House for voters to sign, and it is hoped that many will avail themselves of this opportunity, and also that they will circulate many of these petitions among their friends.
