Committee of Women to Direct School Library

The Upper School library at the North Shore Country Day school is in the hands of a committee composed of Mrs. James Beardslee, chairman; Mrs. Laird Bell, Mrs. Lawrence Howe, Mrs. Joseph Riddle, and Mrs. F. Goddard Cheney. Mrs. Cheney is in turn leading a committee in charge of the grade libraries of the Lower school, insuring through her service on both committees, library efficiency and co-operation throughout the school.

The idea of the committee is to develop in every way possible, good reading habits from the lowest grades through the high school, and to make each child at home with the use of a library of books on all subjects. The Upper School library is in the Study hall and the Lower school libraries in the grade rooms in the form of "cozy corners"—all as attractive as possible to the child doing reference work or the proud possessor of margins of time.

Members of the post are advised that Tuesday will be the time for payment of the annual dues.

A CORRECTION

In a recent article in the Talk referring to the regulations in regard to lights on motor vehicles, it was stated that one light at the front of a car would be sufficient. This, we hasten to correct, does not apply to cars in motion which are required to have two lights. Cars parked at night may be left with one light in the lamp farthest away from the curbing.

SOME SALESMAN!

A Want Ad is a wonderful salesman. The ordinary human salesman can sell to but one customer at a time. Whereas the Want Ad sells to thousands at a time!

BUYS CAPRON HOME

Preston A. Wells will occupy the former Capron home at 267 Ridge avenue. Mr. Wells is coming from the Surf Hotel in Chicago. McGuire and Orr negotiated the deal.

THANKSGIVING 1923

FOR THIS WE ARE THANKFUL

For life and the privilege of moulding it nearer to our heart's desire.

For friends whose respect and loyalty make striving toward an ideal worth while.

For the satisfaction that comes of giving while forgetting the gift.

For the glory of work and the joy of play.

For adversities that give us a greater appreciation of the triumph of success.

For the lesson that lost opportunities have taught and for the hope of new opportunities.

For the chance to determine our future through the right use of the present.
