BIGGEST TOPIC Largest Single Investment in the Country

REAL ESTATE IS

The largest economic subject and the largest single investment subject in America. That is real estate, with an investment total of some eightyfour billions of dollars in urban property in the United States and of some sixty-two billions in rural property.

Something of the proportion and relation of the element in American life represented by the National Association of Real Estate Boards and, its approximately 500 constitutent local boards is set forth in a series of articles now appearing in "Popular Finance." The articles, based on statistical information gathered from a wide range of authoritative sources, call the magnitude of real estate as a business so vast that "figures concerning it are Einsteinian in their rela-

The Civil War, whose destruction was such a drain upon our resources that it left many lean years in its wake, cost us four and a half billion dollars, but we spent four and a half billion dollars in 1922 in the work of hammer and trowel in rebuilding America, and contemplating building projects reported in the United States between January 1st and August 1st of 1923 totaled five and a half billion dollars. A sixth of Uncle Sam's wages, of the national income for the past year, went into the job of building himself war-neglected houses and commercial and industrial structures.

We tear down and rebuild the typical American city piecemeal approximately every thirty years.

Since 1913, a period that included the war years of restricted building, 5,736 buildings have been demolished on Manhattan Island alone to make way for 3,609 bigger and better new ones. Each week more than eleven buildings disappear to make way for
