

HERE'S CHANCE TO CHEER VETS

Winnetka Legion Post Asks Villagers to Contribute Eats and Smokes

FOR MEN AT HOSPITAL

Local War Veterans to Stage Entertainment

Commander Thomas J. Lynch and Adjutant A. C. F. Gedge of Winnetka Post 10, American Legion, are working like a pair of beavers to make the entertainment for disabled soldiers at the Great Lakes Naval hospital, Wednesday evening, August 20, the greatest success of the season. Indeed, it may be ventured that every other man in the post—and there are more than 185 of them—is working with the same end in view. Collaborating with the Winnetka boys are the members of the Wilmette Post 46, the J. Huerter Post, and the post at Evanston, and a group of others along the north shore.

There are said to be about 300 disabled soldiers in the naval hospital and those who are near them every day say they are lonely, many of them almost despondent. Care will make some of them well again; the condition of scores of the others is declared to be hopeless.

Provide Some Cheer

The entertainment for Wednesday is being gotten up to give the invalids a little cheer, to let them know that they are not entirely forgotten. According to Adj. Gedge: "That's the least we can do for them, and the legion alone should not be left to look after their comfort. These men were disabled fighting in their country's cause. All citizens—every man and woman—owe them a debt of gratitude. Mind you, the invalid boys are not appealing for charity; they are too proud for that. They ask nothing, and this makes it doubly everyone's duty to provide for them every little comfort at their command."

In addition to Wednesday's entertainment, the legion men contemplate supplying their disabled comrades with a few luxuries, such as fruit, cigarettes, cigars, smoking tobacco, candy, etc. And while more than 300 men are to be supplied with these things, it won't cost anybody very much if everybody pitches in and helps. And in this case, say the legion men, "everybody" means you.

Invite General Public

The legion men have requested that an invitation to attend Wednesday's performance at the Naval hospital be extended to the general public. They want the public to know of the condition of the disabled soldiers. They claim that it would be a sort of revelation to those who think the war is over. They say it will never be over with these poor, injured buddies. And the legion leaders add that such a visit will not fail to open the hearts and the pocketbooks of those who come.

Whoever wishes to contribute fruit, candy, any sort of smokes, etc., is urged to send the contribution either to the Community House or to the office of Thomas J. Lynch in the Prouty Annex. In either place such donations will be graciously received and a guarantee given that they will reach those for whom they are intended.

May Also Give Cash

Here's something important: It is thought it may not be convenient for some persons to purchase the little luxuries hinted at above. In all such instances, the legion men want it to be understood that a cash donation will accomplish the same purpose. Just send your money either to the Community House or Mr. Lynch's office, get a receipt and the legion will do the rest.

Contributions of fruit, tobacco, candy and the like should be at Community House or in the Lynch office not later than 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, August 20, and preferably not earlier than that date. To all who will send money or checks, they may do so at their pleasure, but not later than August 20.

"I know Winnetka pretty well," Post Commander Thomas J. Lynch said yesterday. "Its people are well supplied with this world's goods and in a just cause none can excel them in generosity. In their hands the disabled soldiers will not be forgotten."

Puts Up Cash Bond and Will Fight Speed Charge

G. D. Gamm, 1619 Wallen avenue, Chicago, was arrested for speeding on Sheridan road this week and was assessed $10 and costs when he made his debut in Judge Northrop's court.

J. J. McCabe, Chicago real estate dealer, was charged with speeding on the Sheridan road on Saturday, August 9. He denied the charge, posted a $50 cash bond and had his case set for Thursday afternoon, August 14.

"Julia" Is Found and Gets Letter She Wrote

"Julia" is found. "It pays to advertise". It is Postmaster Elmer E. Adams speaking.

Very recently Mr. Adams notified Winnetka Talk that a letter bearing the signature "Julia" had been returned to the local post office because its insufficient address had caused the missive to go awandering.

"Through your notice in the Talk", Mr. Adams continued in his telephonic communication, "of the letter returned to this office by the Dead Letter office with a request to locate the writer, 'Julia' has been located and the letter delivered to her".

"How much trouble would have been avoided", sermonizes the P. M., "if 'Julia' had placed her return address in the upper left hand corner of this letter, so that it could be returned to her immediately after delivery was found impossible".

Through the Talk, Postmaster Adams has been enabled to locate several writers of insufficiently addressed mail. Therefore his remark, "It pays to advertise".

Charles and His Pals Rejuvenate Lizzie of 1913

Charles Woodzka lives in Wilmette. That fact alone is not responsible for this notice. What is important about Charles is that he is the owner of a flivver with a history. It emerged from the Ford vintage of 1913, and like Tennyson's brook, goes on forever.

There is only one thing nowadays that causes alarm for Charles, and that is the fear that the great Lizzie magnate will learn of the existence of this wonderful rambler and insist upon buying it from him.

The mechanism of the Woodzka space eliminator yet works with clock-like accuracy and with the power and speed of its breed. This condition came about after the last overhauling operation, which was completed last week. The mechanics who aided Charles on the job are worth mentioning, too. They are Joseph Hens and Joseph Conrad, Washington avenue neighbors of the Woodzkas.

The trio took the aged veteran out for a little exercise last Sunday, driving over the Glenview and Waukegan roads. Lizzie was never working better. Packards, Cadillacs, the Dodge, Buick and other high priced machines were passed as though they had been shackled.

Coming to the Howard

Scene from "Her Marriage Vow" A WARNER PICTURE

"Gee, Lizzie is a daisy, aint she?" exclaimed Charles to the two Joes. "It's too bad the body's all gone."

Ah, there's the rub. The car's superstructure has been practically torn away, unable to withstand the wild speed spurts which Lizzie has been pulling off these many, many years.

Said Joe Hens—"Let's build a new body."

"No," came from the Conrad youth; "Lizzie's all right yet and good for several decades. Send her to the factory and give her a stylish dress. That's my suggestion."

In the meantime while the boys are debating the problem, the old body will carry them around safely enough, provided they strap themselves securely within it.

On their next jaunt the boys propose to take Lizzie down and show her at the Field Museum in Chicago. Warshoffski will never get her, they declare.

That certainly was a wonderful dinner your wife served, Careful! I never tasted such fine Short Ribs of Beef?

They certainly were good—but I always get good meat from the PETERS MARKET! You'd be surprised how inexpensive Short Ribs are! We often have them with vegetables for broth or with browned potatoes as we did tonight! You'll find you can use many of the cheaper cuts of meat to an advantage if you'll trade at PETERS MARKET!
