“Station-to-Station” Calls

A “STATION-TO-STATION” call is a long distance connection between any two telephones (including private branch exchange switchboard operator) as distinguished from a call between individuals.

THIS company must add $20,000,000 to its investment every year to meet the demand for its service. If this money is to be obtained, adequate returns to investors must be assured. Every telephone added to our system increases the value of the service to every existing telephone.

Under “station-to-station” rates a charge is made where a connection is established with anyone at the called telephone, but the charge is about 20 per cent lower than for a “person-to-person” call.

To make a “station-to-station” call, ask for “Long Distance,” give the operator the number of the distant telephone (or the name of the subscriber if you do not know the number) and tell the operator you will talk to anyone who answers.
