

GIVE OCTOBER DATE SCHEDULE

Office of Community House Compiles First Record of Permanent Date Book

AVOIDS DATE CONFLICT

Plan of Community List Gains in Favor

Community House is publishing this week a schedule of village events for October as recorded in the office there, in the hope that it may be of service in giving information to the public and in helping organizations to avoid conflicting dates in scheduling events. Such a monthly schedule will be published just before the beginning of each month.

As was stated two weeks ago in the TALK, Community House is keeping a "date book" of village events and is willing to act as a clearing house in this matter. But it can only serve efficiently if organizations scheduling events will notify the office of dates planned, and make use of the information already recorded of events scheduled. Response from village organizations to this effort on the part of Community House has been most enthusiastic. A conference of school leaders and heads of dramatic organizations was held Tuesday, which proved the need of such a service, and which resulted in the change of date of a number of events scheduled for the future. No organization wishes to put an important event in conflict with another, nor is the public pleased or well served when two good events come on the same night or follow each other so closely as to make attendance at both not a matter of inclination.

But this service, it is explained, can be satisfactory only if leaders of groups and organizations keep constantly in mind and notify the office of events planned, and make use of records in Community House. Any information may be phoned to Mrs. E. W. Wortley at Community House.

SWEITZER URGES THE VOTERS TO REGISTER

County Clerk Sweitzer's warning to the voters reads as follows:

"TO THE VOTERS OF COOK COUNTY, OUTSIDE CHICAGO, CHICAGO HEIGHTS, CICERO AND SUMMIT.

"You no doubt are aware of the fact that the voters of Cook county, not under the jurisdiction of the election commissioners of the City of Chicago, are not compelled to register in person. The judges of the various election precincts and districts sit as a board of registry and enter on the register the names of all known eligible voters, also taking names from previous poll books and registers.

Avoids Inconvenience

"Because many judges in the past have overlooked this important duty and, further, because many of the districts or precincts have a large number of voters not known to the judges, many voters have not been entered on the register, thereby causing the voters a great loss of time in making out 'An Affidavit of Non-Registered Voter' together with a supporting affidavit of a householder, when the voter appears on election day to vote.

"To alleviate this inconvenience and to make for a more perfect registration for this most important coming election, I would suggest that each eligible voter present himself or herself for registration at their respective polling place on Saturday, October 4, 1924, (first registration day) or Tuesday, October 14, 1924, (second registration and revision day) and make certain that he or she is entered on the register as required by law."

Yours very truly,
ROBERT M. SWEITZER,
County Clerk.

That Yelling You Heard Was Skokie Cheer Leaders

After going through a set of causticities that would be the envy of Swedish gymnasts, three boys and three girls were chosen cheer leaders from the large field of candidates at the Skokie school this week.

During the tryout sessions the rhythmic yelling for Skokie could be heard for blocks surrounding the school building. All the pupils cheered with their favorite candidates as though they were urging the school team to hold 'em in a close game.

The successful candidates were Ruth Root, Mary Forrest, Helen Smith, Ben Thompson, Allen Stults and John Milton. These girls and boys will lead the Skokie rooters in all inter-school contests.

Places Kindergarten Teaching Among Life's Important Tasks

Rev. Stephen A. Lloyd Tells Students They Have a Great Responsibility

"Great lives in little places" was the subject of an address given by Rev. Stephen A. Lloyd of Wilmette to the students of the National Kindergarten and Elementary college at their opening assembly last week. Mr. Lloyd pointed out that in reality life is simply a combination of two elements—a set of apparent facts, which we call our environment, and the interpretation of these apparent facts. "The thing that makes life different," said Mr. Lloyd, "is not the variety in the sets of facts, but the differences in the interpretation which is made of these facts. If you can put upon all the facts which we call environment an interpretation which will make for good will and satisfaction and happiness, you will live a big life, be the place large or small.

"As a matter of fact," continued Mr. Lloyd, "You don't need a very big place to live a big life. In this work-a-day, commonplace world, life is measured, not by its setting, but by its content. You are all entering upon some field of service. Some are thinking of a home, and may feel that it is narrow and restricting or binding. It need not be. You may not have all the latest books or the finest furniture, but it takes more than furnishings to make a home—it takes true lives. It is a wonderful thing to find joy in life—it is a still bigger thing to make joy in life.

Chance to Build Lives

In speaking of the opportunities ahead of those who are to be teachers of little children Mr. Lloyd called attention to the fact that it is not enough for the teacher to train minds—she must build lives as well. She has the first chance, and the best chance, to put into the lives of little children the things that stay, the quality of manhood and womanhood that makes life worth the living.

"You will have a part in writing the laws of the nations for the next generation," reminded Mr. Lloyd. "Though you may not hold the pen, you will direct the mind and heart and soul of those who will bring the nations together and make the world fit to live in. This is living the biggest kind of a life in a small place.

"You are going to have your part in all the reforms of the future—in making the world a tolerant place, a place of patience and virtue in the coming years. You will have something to do with raising the standards of living—not putting radio sets or fine bath tubs in every home, but creating a state of mind which will make our country more nearly what it should be.

"Harvest Time is Spring"

"You are going to be a bringer of real religion, which, if anything, is to save the world. Religion is the interpretation of experience which puts a sense of worth and dignity and goodwill into life, and if you live this and carry it with you into the school and home and community there will be a fine harvest in the coming years.

"Does that seem a long, long way ahead? The time for harvest is not September—it is the spring when the first furrow is turned and the seed is planted. What the harvest is to be in 1940 or 1950 is determined by the seed you plant now—on whether you choose to put a great or a petty interpretation on your environment."
