Danger Signals

The short days of Fall and Winter are before us. Folks, compelled to be indoors more during the next six months seek relaxation in books or the movies; take up studies neglected during the summer months, or do other close work. And most of this by artificial light. Naturally some eyes will rebel at this added burden and will send out signals calling for help. Don't fail to heed these signals, or better still, have your eyes examined before nature warns you of "Danger Ahead" and save yourself unnecessary suffering.
