

ELABORATE SETS FOR GUILD PLAY

Huge Lighting Equipment Needed for "The Enchanted Cottage"

PANTOMIME FEATURE

Performance Next Thursday at Kenilworth

When the North Shore Theatre Guild produces "The Enchanted Cottage" November 8 and 10 at Skokie school, Winnetka, it achieves a new accomplishment with regard to its producing. Not only is the scenery the most elaborate the Guild has undertaken, but a tremendous lighting equipment has been bought, which will be carried over the circuit, and the lighting will not be done by the equipment in the different halls.

"The Enchanted Cottage" contains an elaborate pantomime in the second act. This has been directed by Mrs. William Ogden Coleman of Winnetka, and there is a special company of thirty dancers for this spectacle. The solo dances are done by Ewan Hanks, Miss Julia Hanks, who teaches dancing at the Roycemore School in Evanston, and Miss Evelyn Brown, teacher of dancing at the Kenilworth Community Center. They are assisted by William Hardy, F. Cowles Strickland of Evanston, and Henry Lane of Winnetka. Special music has been composed for the pantomime by Mrs. Henry D. Sulcer of Chicago. It has been orchestrated and will be played by a special orchestra of six pieces. The dances include groups of people from Kenilworth, Winnetka, and the School of Speech of Evanston. Unusual and beautiful lighting effects will be used.

Duberg Designs Scenery

The scenery has been designed by George Duberg, who has studied at the Academy of Fine Arts at Petrograd, and later in Moscow. He studied theatrical and scenic arts with Dr. Nicholas Roerich, one of the foremost European stage artists. He has worked in scenic studios in Petrograd and in Finland, and was assistant artist for the Swedish Opera in Helsingfors. He has been in this country two years during which time he has directed and produced many plays.

"The Enchanted Cottage" by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, one of the most famous of English dramatists, tells a fantastic story of two ugly creatures who, through the eyes of love, see each other, not as they are, but as they would like to be. There is a great deal of humor, charming pathos, and excellent climatic scenes. It is played by an all-star Guild cast, including Stewart Bailey, Miss Elenor Eckhart, Mrs. E. V. L. Brown, Mrs. Alexander O. Mason, Miss Margaret Fabian, J. William Macy, Percy Eckhart, and Thomas Rollo.

The Guild membership campaign is now on, and one can obtain membership by applying to Mrs. Ernest H. Fleischmann of Kenilworth. The fee is $8.00, which includes eight tickets to the four major productions, and six tickets to the Northwestern University Playshop performances.

Organize Workers for "Forget-Me-Not" Day

Little forget-me-not flowers, made of cloth or other materials, by corps of disabled veterans, girls and women workers, and others offering their services to assist the wounded World War veterans, are to be sold on the streets and in buildings and public places in Winnetka on Saturday, November 8, National Forget-me-not Day. Girls and prominent women of the community will distribute the forget-me-nots, working in teams and companies under the direction of their leaders and captains throughout the city.

The entire proceeds of the day's activities will go towards the relief and welfare of the disabled American veterans, and in assisting them in their ambitions to once more become useful, self-reliant citizens of the nation for which they made many great sacrifices.

According to Mrs. Harry M. Lay, chairman of the Winnetka campaign, the "Forget-me-not Day" is receiving the hearty support of the Woman's club and it is expected that Winnetka will again go over the top in their help to the wounded and disabled World War veterans.

A CORRECTION

An article in last week's issue of WINNETKA TALK concerning the Woman's society reunion observances in connection with the Congregational Church Jubilee contained the following phrase: "Reminiscences, some historically inaccurate, were presented by Mrs. Well-Remember and others." We are informed the phrase should have read: "Reminiscences, historically accurate, were presented etc." The error was committed in a contributed article.

PLAN LARGE SPRAGUE MEETING FOR MONDAY

veterans of the World war, Col. Sprague naturally has formed very decided opinions concerning his country's duty toward those who are still "fighting the battles of France." Here are a few of his crisp sentiments on the subject of rehabilitation:

On Rehabilitation

"Those who have thus far systematically neglected to aid and fight for the proper care of the disabled are not competent to handle or speak for their future care."

"The salvation of the government does not lie in the occasional interest of the few, but in the continuous interest of the many."

"We have no more right to pass the buck as citizens, than we had as men in the front line advancing against an enemy."

"The story of the official construction is a tragedy for the sick, an affront to their comrades and a discredit to the Government."

"If I am elected United States Senator, I will devote my time and energies to seeing that such conditions are not continued and that government obligations toward the disabled are squarely and humanely met."

As a highly successful business man and civic worker, Col. Sprague is described as a thorough-going student of government and laws affecting every phase of our political, industrial and economic life.

"Sort of Man Needed"

One prominent writer has said of the candidate:

"A sound thorough business training is his foundation for a tried executive ability of the very highest order, but a wide experience in everyday life, that has taught him what other people's misfortunes and troubles are, is probably what he himself considers his most valuable equipment for public service... He is an American and a believer in America. He is not of those who think this country incapable of working out her own destiny unentangled. He would give her domestic policies the fullest opportunity to develop, without handcuffing her destiny to foreign wrists... A man like this—a believer, a worker, a fighter—should make a United States senator of the sort we need now."

Find Liquor in Machine After Kenilworth Crash

An automobile driven by a woman, said to have been intoxicated, in which her four children were passengers, and in whose possession were found two bottles of intoxicants, collided with an automobile driven by Henry O'Hagen Saturday night at Sheridan road near Melrose avenue, Kenilworth.

The woman and an 18-year old son were badly cut and both cars were damaged.

Mrs. McClain Reinhart of 352 Ridge avenue is on an extended trip in the east.

His whole evening was spoiled

It was one of those evenings he had reserved for himself—an evening at home with his library. But hardly had he settled into his easy chair before his sigh of contentment changed to a shiver. The room was chilly. He felt of the radiator. It was cold. Someone had forgotten—left the draft open—and the fire had burned out completely. So most of his evening was spent in the disagreeable, messy job of building a new fire and making numerous trips to the basement to nurse it along.

With the Minneapolis Heat Regulator in charge of the heating plant this never would have happened. The "Minneapolis" operates dampers and drafts automatically. Keeps rooms at an even, healthful temperature. Changes to a lower night temperature. Accurate, dependable. A 39-year old product serving hundreds of thousands of home owners. Easily installed on any heating plant burning any fuel. If you are buying or building a home, insist that it be Minneapolis-equipped.

Pay This Easy Way

For a small down payment, we will install the Minneapolis in your home. Then you pay a small amount each month. The fuel saved by the Minneapolis makes it a paying investment—and most people say that is incidental to the other benefits. Don't go through another winter without automatic heat control. Ask for full information and booklet "The Proper Operation of the Home Heating Plant." Write, call or phone today.
