

LAUDS WOLSTED WORK IN INDIA

Winnetka Minister Is Agricultural Leader

"When Rev. and Mrs. Clarence E. Wolsted stayed in our home a few months upon their arrival in India," said Rev. Edward L. Nolting of the American college, Madura, India, in his talk at the Winnetka Congregational church, last Sunday, "we said that, if they applied themselves later to their work as they did to the study of the language, they would make good missionaries.

"And they are doing just that. They are most sympathetic toward the people, which is a necessary quality in the life of missionaries.

Ministers to Lepers
"At present they are living in Manamadura, about 30 miles south of Madura, South India. They supervise a boarding school for boys and girls. The Indian pastor there speaks very highly of them and predicts a large life of service for them among the Indian people. As a government leper asylum is located at Manamadura, Mr. Wolsted supervises that also. It is difficult for us to imagine a sadder and more pitiful condition than the lot of lepers in India; but Wolsted, through starting a library, introducing games, organizing a school for children and a Sunday service, and planting a garden, has accomplished his task so well there that one of the young men in the asylum was heard to say that he had not dreamed that a leper asylum could be such a haven of refuge or that so much of heaven could be found here on earth."

Interested in Farming
"Mr. Wolsted is especially interested in agriculture," said Mr. Nolting. "He is buying a piece of land that he can use as an experimental farm. There is much scope for developing agriculture along more productive lines and thereby helping the farmers raise better crops and improve their scale of living. We hope that he can later develop this line of work in connection with the vocational department of the boys' high school."

"Oxen, which can be obtained for about $20 a yoke, still furnish the motive power for farm work in India, tractors being impracticable both because of the expense and the difficulty of using them in terraced fields of small area. Tools are obtainable at the foreign branches of American implement firms at Bombay and Calcutta, and a number of the members of the Winnetka Men's Sunday Morning class are interested in assisting Mr. Wolsted to obtain such implements as would be of greatest value on such an experimental farm.

"Mr. Wolsted's assistants are securing land for the poor farmers and are now helping him to organize co-operative societies.

Agriculture Their Salvation
"I hope more and more we can encourage the needed industrial and agricultural work," wrote Wolsted in his last letter. "If the people could raise more than merely enough for a bare living, then in time they could entirely support teachers and churches."

Legion Opens Bowling and Indoor Schedules

Indoor baseball and bowling teams have been organized by members of Winnetka Post of the American Legion. The two teams have been limbering up during the past week and are now ready to meet all comers on the north shore. Harold Voltz is captain of the baseball team and Tom Brown is leading the bowlers.

"SEA HAWK" ENDS TODAY

At the conclusion of the matinee and two evening shows at Community House today, "The Sea Hawk" ends its highly successful two-day run in Winnetka. This film is from Sabatini's tale of pirate adventure and is the story of an English gentleman who became the mighty chieftain of the seas.

CARRY HARVEST GIFTS TO CHURCH TODAY

Mr. Hutchinson is one of the newer members of this community and, because his work is not so definitely connected with Winnetka's institutions, may not be so well known among the residents as are some of the other speakers in this series. He has spent several years in China studying its life and problems while serving its people. His return to America was dictated by considerations of health. Some months ago he joined the editorial staff of the Christian Century, edited in Chicago. He is in so great demand as a speaker that Winnetka must "catch him on the wing." The complexity of the oriental situation and the certainty that America will have many problems to solve in her relations with China, give great timeliness to his subject.

Miss Lasier, Organist
The organist for the evening is Miss Marion Lasier. Mrs. Orval Simpson, who is the soprano soloist at St. Elisabeth's church in Glencoe, will sing two solos, "God is My Shepherd," by Dvorak, and "The Golden Bells," by Marvel.

The public is invited to all the services of the day.

SPEAKS IN OHIO

C. W. Washburne, superintendent of schools, spoke to the Parent-Teacher association and the board of education of Glendale, Ohio, last Friday. The organizations sought the advice of Mr. Washburne regarding the advisability of adopting the individual system of instruction as used in Winnetka.
