

U. OF I. TO REMAIN WITHIN BUDGET RATE

No increase in the amount of money for the University of Illinois will be asked from the Legislature by the Board of Trustees of that institution, President David Kinley said this week.

With the explanation that there is no limit to what an institution like a great state university can do from the educational and scientific viewpoint but that it was thought inadvisable to ask the taxpayer of the state to make an additional outlay for the university at the present time, President Kinley said that the same amount that was granted two years ago will be asked again, $5,250,000 per year for two years.

At the same time it was pointed out that the officials of a neighboring state university were asking this year something over $16,000,000 from the legislature in that state.

No Increase for Years

It has been the hope of the members of the Illinois Board of Trustees that this same amount granted by the legislature and approved by the governor two years ago will be all that it will be necessary to ask for any biennium over a period of several years. Part of this money every year will be used for buildings and the remainder for operation and maintenance.

Under this plan, if the amount asked meets the approval of the people and is granted by the members of the legislature and approved by the governor, $4,250,000 per year for the next two years will be available for the necessary operation and maintenance of the university, while one million dollars will be available each of the two years for building purposes.

Money for Buildings

The money asked for buildings will be used during the next two years for the construction of a second unit of the library, the erection of a facade and the addition of one end of the armory, a building for the architecture department, an additional wing to the men's gymnasium, and an addition to the pharmacy building at Chicago.

Students to Observe Solar Eclipse Jan. 24

Prof. Philip Fox, director of Dearborn Observatory and professor of astronomy at Northwestern university, is planning special observations for Eclipse Day, January 24, with respect to the spectrum created by the moon's shadow overcasting the sun. A special spectrograph is being fitted to the Dearborn Observatory telescope and this will be utilized during the few minutes the eclipse is viewable from this part of the world both by Prof. Fox, his assistant, Prof. L. J. Comrie, and, through other and smaller telescopes, by members of his class in astronomy, now numbering forty-two.

Shortly after 8 o'clock in the Chicago district the moon will begin her shadow play with the sun and during the next half-hour thousands of telescopes and smoked-glass devices will be leveled skywards. Prof. Fox admits that probably nothing of immediate scientific value will be obtained in the promised study but, inasmuch as solar "atmosphere" has been a constant study of scientists for years, he will accept this opportunity, he says, to make additional observations. Many members of his class will station themselves along the lake shore not far from Dearborn Observatory with smaller telescopes and make observations of their own. There will follow in the classroom a general discussion of what happened and of what the most successful and experienced observers obtained from the study.

Police Knock on Wood; No Burglars Last Month

December was a fine month for the police department. Chief Peterson is smiling all over his face and knocking on wood every time he thinks of it. To quote his official report, "I am pleased to call your attention again to the fact that during this month no burglaries occurred or anything else of a serious nature."

There were 16 arrests during the month. Fifteen of the violations were for speeding and traffic violations. One arrest was that of a fugitive wanted by the Kansas City police department. Stolen property to the value of $44 was recovered, one stolen auto was recovered and 13 disturbances were suppressed. There were only six auto accidents, none of which were very serious, and 85 street lights were reported out. That gives a pretty fair idea of the month's business.

The fire department did pretty well too. Property to the value of $142,000 and having contents worth $80,500 was threatened with destruction by fire during the month. The total damage was only $6,825. Most of the fires were started by overheated furnaces or some cause having to do with the heating systems.

Assessment Receipts to Be Sent out in February

Numerous inquiries received at the village offices in regard to receipts for the payments of special assessments, caused Village Manager Woolhiser to issue an announcement this week that receipts for these payments would probably not be mailed out until after February 15.

The village offices are so swamped with work at the present time that it is impossible to mail out receipts for the payments as fast as they come in, so it has been decided to wait until a large number can be sent out at once.

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS

THE first resolution for all should be to follow the Health Trail by drinking more milk, and eating more dairy products—and, of course, ordering from the Winnetka Sanitary Dairy in order to get the best.

Add Interior Decorating to Gift Shop Enterprise

Arthur Duncan, who is associated with the Elizabeth Duncan Gift shop at 812 Elm street, well-known throughout the north shore for its exquisite brasses, wrought iron, and crystal, is now ready to introduce a new aspect of the shop—that of interior decorating.

The question of interior furnishings such as hangings, furniture, or drapes, will be solved, it is explained, under the skillful management of Mr. Duncan. He will give personal attention to country homes, and is in a position to reproduce any style, make, or period of furniture.

In the collection of antiques which Mr. Duncan now has on display are: an early Venetian console of the Eighteenth century; directoire bench with antique Sevillian coffee table; Venetian book-table, and a Spanish bench of the Seventeenth century, as well as a variety of other pieces. They are all authentic pieces, he explains.

Richards to Attend Big Mission Parley in East

Good for you, Happy. I'm mighty glad to know that you're going to have a home of your own. Of course, you may have to cut your living expenses, but that won't be hard. Start right away by giving your meat trade to PETERS MARKET. You'll get high class meat at reasonable prices and excellent service.

Yes, I've decided to put up a house, but it will keep me poor making the payments. I'll have to cut down on groceries and meats, I suppose.
