

FOLDS DIRECTS LEGION DRIVE

Noted Chicagoan Heads
$5,000,000 Campaign

"One young man who stands out above all other young men in Chicago," is the way Vice President-elect Dawes describes Charles W. Folds who heads the drive to secure Illinois' quota of the $5,000,000 American Legion Endowment fund.

One of the many reasons why General Dawes thus characterized Mr. Folds is that as chairman of the five Liberty bond drives in the Chicago district, he so successfully directed the activities of 40,000 workers that the enormous sum of $3,071,958,000 was raised. As a matter of fact the Chicago Liberty Loan committee had a greater distribution per capita than any large city in the country, far exceeding the quota assigned to it on each loan.

For more than ten years Mr. Folds has been president of the United Charities of Chicago. In 1919 and 1920 he was president of the Union League Club of Chicago. For some years he was president, and still is a director, of the Home for Destitute Crippled Children. He also is affiliated with a number of other charities.

Mr. Folds was born Aug. 23, 1870 in Oshkosh, Wis. He was reared in Minneapolis, attending the grade and high schools. He later took an extension course at the University of Minnesota.

Mr. Folds entered the Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis in 1889 as a messenger. At that time the late James B. Forgan, afterwards head of the First National Bank of Chicago, was cashier.

He came to Chicago in 1899 as representative of the Commercial Paper bankers, Charles Hathaway and company of New York, later becoming a general partner when the name was changed to Hathaway, Smith, Folds and company, which has continued up to the present time. In 1923 Mr. Folds started an investment banking house under his own name which is now Folds, Buck and company, with offices at 208 South La Salle street.

"In the hands of such a dynamo of energy as Mr. Folds, the Legion Endowment drive for disabled soldiers and the orphans of veterans is absolutely assured of success," said Howard P. Savage, commander, American Legion, Department of Illinois.

Hill and Stone Find Business Coming Afloat

Hill and Stone, Winnetka real estate brokers, have been busy recently and report the sale of two more homes this week. The Eldon Trimmer home on the northwest corner of Vernon avenue and Edgewood lane has been purchased by E. H. Allen, a former resident of Winnetka. The Ezra Taylor residence at 314 Ridge avenue has been sold to Albert S. Long of Winnetka. This agency reports that business has begun to improve after the dull winter.

Country Day Child Tells Of Washington Exercises

(Written by a child.)

On Friday, February 20, the North Shore Country Day School pupils held their annual George Washington exercise. It was given by the Seventh Grade American History class in quite an original manner.

The different men such as pioneer, trapper, Indian, and black man, were represented as having had to do with Washington and the Revolutionary War during those troublesome times. These men told of their experiences and their views on that great war, and on their leader.

The program ended with a little scene where the French Ambassador presented the French flag to George Washington as a symbol of the great friendship between those two great nations. With George Washington in this scene was Martha.etsy Ross was also represented and related the history of the American flag.

The music was simple but effective. three patriotic songs: the Marseillaise, the Stars and Stripes, and America. Thus was George Washington represented at one of our schools.

Mrs. Lloyd C. Whitman is Summoned by Death

Mrs. Lloyd C. Whitman, 686 Hill road, died Monday afternoon, February 16, at her home. She is survived by her husband and two sons, Platt and Geoffrey.

Funeral services were held from the Graceland chapel Wednesday afternoon and burial will be at Lake Forest in the family plot.

Mrs. Whitman had been ill for several months, but was not thought to have been in a dangerous condition, and her death was very sudden and unexpected.

Ninth Grade Parents to Confer With Instructors

The Ninth Grade Parent association of the North Shore Country Day school will meet at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, February 25, at the school. Mrs. Hathaway Watson will be chairman and the discussion will be on the subject "Home Study."

A committee of ninth grade mothers, headed by Mrs. Phillip W. Moore and Mrs. Walter Marx, has been collecting the data on home study and has interviewed each teacher who has ninth grade classes. Points to be discussed are amount of time for each subject, right bed-time hour, regularity, a place to study, whether the parent should help the child to study, and others.

Mrs. Knight Blanchard, 106 Woodland avenue, entertained 12 guests at luncheon and bridge on Wednesday.
