

PARISH IS HOST TO MISSIONARY

Watts O. Pye of China to Address Many Congregational Meetings

"MODERN" PREACHER

Will Depict Varied Duties of Missionaries

Paul and Charlotte Reynolds are familiar names in Winnetka. These young people have been learning how to work and live in North China under the direction of Watts O. Pye, who has been for 17 years the master mind of the

Watts O. Pye

Christian forces that center in Fenchow and spread out to great areas never before known to the world.

Mr. Pye is in the United States for a few months, and the Winnetka Congregational church is fortunate in being on the list of places where he will spend a Sunday. He will speak to the Church school this Sunday at 9:30 o'clock, and will be the preacher at the regular service of worship at 11 o'clock. The Young Men's Club has changed the hour of its meeting to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and plans to have a supper and informal meeting, with Mr. Pye as leader and guest.

Modern Missionary

Mr. Pye is a "modern," he told some of the women last Wednesday that he was surprised to find people in America who think it is the missionary's job to spend his time preaching to the heathen. "That is as modern as an ox team would be on your Sheridan road," he said. "In that country where it has become necessary to hold men back from the Christian church, and to limit the numbers who may join, just for lack of enough leaders, the missionary's job is preeminently to find the able men and train them in leadership."

Dearth of Workers

One such Chinese leader told Mr. Pye lately that in his center he could receive 20,000 church members next year, if he had the place and the men to take care of such big numbers. "And think of a hundred 'bachelor' churches, all men and not a woman," he exclaimed.

Not churches alone, but schools, colleges, hospitals, farmers' conferences, government road building—everything that helps make life better and more civilized, is now a part of the "day's work" of the missionary, Mr. Pye explains. It makes a fascinating story.

Young people and older—everybody—it is felt will be glad of this chance to hear the man who "with a rule and a map" has opened to the modern world a new country, and gives us a glimpse of it.

District No. 9 Polling Place at Electric Shop

Voters of the community are advised the polling place in District No. 9, has been changed from the Masonic temple to the Parr and Powell Electrical shop at 748 Elm street. The change is effective at the April 7 election.

The district affected is described as follows:

Beginning at the shore of Lake Michigan and the center line of Elm street; thence west along the center line of Elm street to the Chicago and North Western railroad; thence south-westerly along the Chicago and North Western railroad to the center line of Willow street; thence east along the center line of Willow street to the shore line of Lake Michigan; thence north along the shore line of Lake Michigan to the center line of Elm street.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Copthorne entertained 12 of their friends at a very informal tea last Sunday evening at their home, 1183 Asbury avenue.
