

C. M. T. C. QUOTA NEARLY FILLED

Young Men Asked to Apply Without Delay

The War department quotas for the Citizens' Military training camp is being rapidly filled, in fact has been filled in several of the nine corps areas throughout the United States.

Maj. Gen. Harry C. Hale, the commanding general of the Sixth Corps area in commenting upon the Citizens' Military training camps, emphasized the necessity for early application of those young men who desire to be accepted for attendance. General Hale is responsible for the enrollment of applicants from the states of Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin and, is also charged with conducting the camps for the corps area, which will be held at Camp Custer, Mich., and Jefferson Barracks, Mo., from July 23 to August 21.

The minimum quota for the Sixth Corps area is 5600 applications, and of this number 5,350 formal applications had been received up to June 1, leaving but 250 more applications needed to fill the minimum quota.

Applicants must be between 17 and 24 years of age and of good moral character. The government pays all necessary expenses including railroad fare to and from camp, food, uniforms, clothing, housing, laundry and necessary medical attention while at camp. The only obligation for those attending the first three years in the C. M.

T. C. is that students must attend for the entire period of the camp, abide by the rules and regulations and undergo the instruction provided.

With but 250 more applications needed to meet the minimum quota it behooves any young man who is interested in attending this year's camp to submit his application at once.

Applications and any further information about applying for attendance at the C. M. T. camps will be furnished by the Commanding General, Sixth Corps area, 1819 West Pershing road, Chicago, upon request.

Bob Wienecke Receives Commission in Reserves

Two north shore youths, students at Northwestern university, have completed the university course in military science, and received their rewards this week. One, Robert H. Wienecke, 678 Vernon avenue, Glencoe, was commissioned a second lieutenant. The other, Paul M. Corbett, 78 North Abbottsford road, Winnetka, was awarded a certificate for his work. He could not be commissioned a second lieutenant, not being 21 years of age.

Twenty-two students of the university were in the group which received these honors. Twelve were commissioned and 10 received certificates. The oath of office was administered to those commissioned by Capt. William A. Murphy, U. S. A., and the presentation of the commissions and a brief address was made by President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university. President Scott was a colonel in the personnel department of the army in Washington during the war.

Chicagoans Gave Half of Whole Tornado Fund

"Thank the people of Chicago for their help, before you do anything else." This is the message H. M. Baker, director of Red Cross relief work brings to Chicago from 6,059 families in the 550 miles of tornado swept area in Illinois, Indiana and Missouri.

Mr. Baker says that it was the worst disaster that ever befell this country, and the fund of $2,650,000 the largest ever contributed by popular subscription. Of this Chicago and vicinity gave $1,030,000, nearly one-half.

Rehabilitation expenditures thus far amount to $727,234. Every cent of this represents actual benefits to the victims, as salaries and other overhead expenses are paid from the annual membership funds. For building and repairs $322,060 have been spent; household goods, $133,000; food, $74,226; clothing; $45,413; live stock for farmers, $19,638; farm implements, $19,806; feed and seed, $5,870. It will be several months before the work is finished, and a number of years before the Red Cross responsibility is ended in the case of orphans.
