October 3—Deerfield at New Trier
October 10—Thornton at New Trier
October 24—New Trier at Proviso
November 7—Waukegan at New Trier
November 14—New Trier at Evanston

In the second, third and fourth games, junior teams will also clash for junior conference honors. Proviso, Waukegan and Evanston games are senior suburban league games.

A squad of 30 aspirants for places on New Trier's 1925 football team reported to Coach Childs this week and were put through a stiff grind of practice preparatory to the opening game which will be on September 19 with Lakeview high school on New Trier's new gridiron.

Practice continued throughout the week, the squad starting work at 9:30 in the morning. Next Monday the team will work out at the usual time after school. Coach Childs is expecting to have a squad of 60 from which to select a team by the time regular practice begins. With a good number of veterans back to form the nucleus of his team, and some good material coming up from the younger ranks, one of the best teams put out by the school in years is expected.

In fact, Childs expressed himself as pleased with the showing made in the early practices and expects the team to perform very creditably during the coming season.

One of the chief reasons for optimism for the gridiron season at New Trier is the presence of Walter Aschenbach, former Dartmouth captain and producer of some of the best prep teams in the East during the past years. Aschenbach was one of the outstanding players of his day in the East and has kept abreast of all the latest developments in football strategy. A new style of play may be introduced, but emphasis on the fundamentals of play will not be neglected. Assistant Coach Carpenter returned Friday and began work with the squad also. Coach Childs, who has been undergoing a minor operation this week, will soon be on the field.

Among the hopes of the New Trier this year are to be found several players whose experience will count heavily toward the team's success. Several of these have taken on considerable weight since the last season and will be better than ever this year.

Prospects Look Good
Captain Jud Thompson, a leading halfback prospect, is back in mole-skins and looked good this week. Martin, stellar back of last year, will be ineligible this season as it is his ninth term. Lauer, Paletti and Davis are other experienced halfbacks who have reported for duty.

Pancoast, who did some fine work last year, will be out for fullback again this year with plenty of competition for his position from the younger set. B. Jenks, quarterback, seems the best bet at present to direct the play.

The line will be fortunate also in having a good supply of experienced men. Bob Martin, last year's center, will be back, but the appearance of Fall, a new man in the lineup, may cause the coaches to shift him to tackle where he is equally valuable. John Boddie seems to have a good chance of continuing at the other tackle job.

For ends, Aschenbach will find some good material in Phil Brown and Nay, another newcomer who has had considerable experience in another school before coming here. Nay has already reported for practice. He may, however, be shifted to a halfback position.

New Trier's schedule this year seems to be one of the best it has had for some time. A good non-league game will give the team some seasoning as an opener and the hardest contests will come at the end of the season.

HAYFORD WINS ANOTHER SHERIDAN SHORE EVENT

The Labor day race of the Sheridan Shore Yacht club of Wilmette harbor was a speedy one, but because of a failure of some of the craft to round the designated south buoys the race was "scratched" by the regatta committee.

Max Hayford, leading the fight for season's honors in his "Kadumble" won the race, and was followed closely by Richard Murison's "Wawa," and Gordon Jones' "Dawn."

Saturday afternoon's race was won by Jones, who piloted his craft to victory over a speedy course. Hayford brought "Kadumble," home second, while "Wawa," owned and piloted by Richard Murison walked off with third
