

Camp Fire Embers

On a recent Saturday six girls of the Ta-ta-po-chon group, with their guardian, Miss Vivian Ratcliffe, met at Community House eagerly anticipating a good time. Instructions from the guardian were to the effect that they should follow a carefully prepared trail made by two members who had disappeared with the supper.

Eager to start and anxious to retrieve the lost dinner, the girls dashed out any door happening to be near them. A cry of delight caused the crew to turn toward one of the members who had found a slip of paper, with an arrow scribed on it, tacked to a tree. Following the direction of the arrow, the girls stumbled upon more and more arrows until they were quite surprised to find themselves at the beach. With renewed efforts and heightened spirits, the hungry Camp Fire maidens rushed upon two girls seated beside the familiar supper basket.

But the food reconciled all; once more amicably joined, the girls wasted no time in going wading and teasing each other. Fearful of the results, the guardian persuaded them to eat.

An inspirational talk by the guardian followed the supper and after officers for the coming year had been elected the party broke up; each girl—homeward bound.

The following officers were elected: president, Mildred Martin; secretary, Peggy Hubsch; treasurer, Elizabeth Dunlap; publicity manager, Virginia Schlacks.

Mt. Holyoke Completes Endowment Campaign

The opening of Mount Holyoke this year, in the 88th year of its existence, is especially interesting, because it marks the 25th year of President Woolley's administration, and the simultaneous completion of the $3,000,000.00 endowment and building fund, which is to be paid in full December 31, the anniversary of President Woolley's actual assumption of the presidency. This endowment assures the future harmonious development of the college which is already one of the best equipped of the colleges for women. Elizabeth Millar, 510 Washington avenue, has returned to Mount Holyoke college for the academic year. Several other north shore girls are attending at the eastern school.
