

Publish Annals of 1925 Advancement in Realty Ethics

Publication of the nine-volume annals of the National Association of Real Estate boards for 1925 has been completed. Mailing to members who have already paid the publication fee begins this week.

The annals are a compilation of the most important contributions of the year to real estate thought and practice. They consist of a volume on general real estate topics such as city growth tendencies, real estate professional standards, appraisal methods, and the future outlook for real estate, and a special volume covering the work of each of the large divisions of real estate practice, together with a volume on the organization and work of real estate boards. Topics covered by the special volumes are Real Estate Finance, Industrial Property, Property Management, Home Building and Subdividing, Real Estate Brokerage, Selling Farm Lands, Co-operative Apartment Organization, Financing and Management.

The annals contain not only a complete stenographic account of the discussions at the annual convention of the association held at Detroit, in June of this year, but also a large number of special reports on real estate problems and allied topics prepared by men chosen by the executive committees of the Association's seven Divisions for their known achievements and command of the subjects.

Demand for Electric Ranges Doubles 1924

The electric range continues to demonstrate that it has passed beyond the position of a "comer" and has arrived. Expressed in terms of horse power, as is now the custom, the Public Service company has secured new contracts for ranges thus far this year which double the figures for the same period of 1924. The score is nearly three times greater than that made in the same time in 1923.

Numerous demonstrations have been made of the range with the effect of widening interest in it. Wide variety in the use of it continues to be shown in the new contracts for electric power. The energy, as shown by the late contracts, is employed among other purposes in structural steel working, ice making, shoe making, drilling, bridge building, quarrying for operating compressors, for garage requirements, for machine and repair shops, for cleaning, for laundry uses, for pumping.
