Matzenauer Thrills
Large Audience at
Music Club Program
BY MUSIC CRITIC

The inaugural recital in the Winnetka Music club series occurred Monday evening, October 12, at New Trier High school. Remembering the great value of last year's recitals, a large audience, made up almost entirely of former subscribers to the series, assembled some time before the moment for the artist of the evening to appear.

It was a source of disappointment to many that Edward Johnson, announced to open the 1925-26 concerts, was unable to appear. But this disappointment was soon forgotten in the delight afforded by Margaret Matzenauer, world renowned contralto, who at the last moment consented to substitute for Mr. Johnson.

Miss Matzenauer presented a program of intense and varied interest. Her offerings were arranged in groups of four songs each. The first group contained compositions by Schumann, Wolff, and Strauss. In this group were included such classics as Schumann's "Widmung," Brahms' "Sapphische Ode," and Strauss' "Zueignung," all of them sung with such a depth of feeling and understanding as only a great singer can command.

This opening set was followed by four French lyrics, by Cocquard, Chausson, and Fourdrain. To these also Miss Matzenauer brought a well developed talent.

Her accompanist, Mr. George Vause, next presented two numbers and an encore, thereby testifying to the response of the hearers to his facile and expressive performance.

The soloist of the evening resumed her portion of the program with four compositions by Russian composers. These were rather somber, exhibiting the deeper emotions, to which the singer did full justice. The evening closed with four songs of lighter import, all from the pen of Frank La Forge, the first two being of Mexican origin and arranged by La Forge; the last two being entirely of his own composition. Miss Matzenauer sang several encores in the course of the evening, the best liked being the well known "Drink to me only with thine eyes" and "In the time of roses."
