

Winn. Woman's Club

Carfare, lunches, and school equipment stand in the way of hundreds of Chicago boys and girls getting a high school education. How these "last straw" expenses are supplied to many deserving and ambitious boys and girls whose education would otherwise have to stop, was told by Mrs. Edward D. Pomeroy, president of the Vocational Supervision League of Chicago, at a meeting of the Winnetka Woman's club, Tuesday, October 21.

The Vocational Supervision League, which is supported by individual and club memberships, is for the protection and education of children of working age, 14 years, who without its assistance, would have to become earning members of their families. Scholarships, ranging from $7 to $25 a month are given to pupils, who in the opinion of the Board of vocational guidance of the public schools, are promising, and anxious to have an education, but who, through economic stress at home, could not otherwise stay in school. That these scholarships pay good interest is shown by the excellent scholarship reports and happiness of the children in being able to continue their school work without being a burden to their families.

As many as three children in one family have been given scholarships for a period of four years each.

"How Illinois Treats her Women

Offenders" will be the subject discussed by Miss Jessie T. Binford, director of the Juvenile Protective association, at the meeting of the Winnetka Woman's club, November 3. This program is the result of a concerted effort on the part of various women's organizations to bring about a more humane consideration of this problem.

The members of the Winnetka Woman's club interested in the organization of a Child Study class are asked to meet at the club next Tuesday at 2 o'clock, preceding the musical program. At that time plans for the class will be made, and the program and time of meeting decided upon.

The Tenth District of the Federation of Women's clubs will meet at the Rogers Park Woman's club, Tuesday, November 10.

Country Day Football Boys Wallop Academy

The North Shore Country Day school football team defeated the Lake Forest academy bantamweight team by a score of 10-0 Wednesday of this week. The two teams had matched their strength four times, and in every case the Lake Forest boys had emerged victorious. Their team outweighed the Day school Wednesday, but fast playing and good teamwork on the part of the latter won them victory. Other games between the two teams will be scheduled this fall, it was said.
