THE BEAUTY and softness of old parchment-like Rookwood ware was the inspiration for the quaint new Rookwood Room of the Library Plaza Cafeteria.

Descend a few steps from the main cafeteria floor--discover the delight of dining beneath the vaulted arches of this superb room, where a tinkling fountain plays and the glow of hundreds of amber lights casts an inviting radiance. Massive columns form a dozen nooks, where flowers and ferns add color to the surroundings. And there are booths for two--or for six.

Here the same excellence of cuisine that has always been characteristic of the Library Plaza Cafeteria, long popular with thousands of diners, adds the familiar keynote that makes the guest feel at home from his very first visit.

Note these specials we have prepared for you. May we expect you today?
