

C. J. Eastman Joins Radio Dramatic Cast; Well Known Amateur

Charles J. Eastman, well known Winnetkan, and active in the ranks of both the North Shore Theatre Guild and the Community Drama club, appeared in a production given Wednesday of this week over WMAQ, Chicago Daily News radio station, by the WMAQ Players.

The WMAQ players under the direction of William Ziegler Nourse presented the first act and scene one of the second act of "Kempy," by Elliott Nugent. This was the first radio presentation of this comedy, that became popular in Chicago some years ago, and was made possible only through the courtesy of Mr. Nugent, who is now in New York playing in "The Poor Nut," another of his own pieces. On this, the eleventh night the Players broadcast this season, they again presented Helen Shanahan Kiley, who has not been with them since last spring, and introduced Mr. Eastman and Jessica Calhoun Swartz who made their debuts with the Players Wednesday. Following was the cast:

- "Dad" Bence . . . . . Robert Graceland
- Ruth Bence . . . . . Helen Shanahan Kiley
- "Ma" Bence . . . . . Viola Roth
- Jane Wade . . . . . Jessica Calhoun Swartz
- Katherine Bence . . . . . Florence Bayer
- "Kempy" James . . . . . William Ziegler Nourse
- "Duke" Merrill . . . . . Charles J. Eastman

Duncan Studios Occupy New Elm Street Store

The Duncan Studios (Shop of Elizabeth and Arthur Duncan) has just moved from 812 Elm street directly across the street to 815 Elm street in one of the new Weissenberg stores where, in more spacious surroundings, their beautiful wares show up to even a better advantage.

The rich blue ceiling and black walls make a background for the brightness of the silver, crystal, pottery and brass that is displayed.

This little shop has become widely known for the distinctiveness and unusual quality of its goods.

Mrs. Guy S. Bailey, who has her

Book Nook in the Duncan Studios has moved across the street with them.

Mrs. Seymour Morris, 801 Bryant avenue, has charge of the reservations for guest tickets to the twenty-ninth annual banquet to be given by the Society of Mayflower Descendants at the Blackstone hotel Saturday, November 21.

Mrs. James Porter of Hubbard Woods gave an address Saturday, November 14, at the Birth Control Conference at the Chicago Woman's club.
